

We are three sisters and I'm the younger one. Just like our society, We always had to hear that, " aww, just three sisters? Don't you have any brother? What will happen to your parents after your marriage? Who will take care of them?" After listening all of them we sisters always smiled just like nothing happened! We used to say, "Why? Are we less than son's? Why daughter's can't take care of their parents?"

After that everyone used to give us awkward smiles. One day we met an old aunt in a family function. So again we sister's had to face that similar situation.

AGAIN AND AGAIN AND AGAIN, " DON'T YOU HAVE ANY SINGLE BROTHER? JUST 3 SISTER'S?"

So as always we barely smiled and replied. But that day, that aunt didn't stop, she was saying what's the point of our higher education? We will get married soon and then our whole income will be our in-laws. Our husbands won't have anyone after our parent's death. She also said that, how unlucky my parents are! Because after our marriage, they won't have anyone to take care of them. She told to my parents, "look at me I have 2 son's, I don't have any tension, they are studying for being a doctor. After becoming big doctors I will have 2 daughter in laws. My life will be set. It's totally okay to have just daughters. I will pray for you so that you guys don't have to give much dowry to your son in laws. Don't worry."

That day, we didn't have any words. How disgusting mentality someone can have in this generation where daughters are still less than sons. My parents didn't say anything because they knew how they raised their daughters.

After 8 years, today we sisters were going for shopping because my 1st marriage anniversary is today! While coming at home, we went to an old aged home for serving. Guess what? After freaking 8 years we met that aunt there. After seeing us she started crying loudly. Then we knew that her son's left her there and shifted somewhere. They didn't even say, where their houses are! Aunt's both of daughter in laws used to fight just because aunt stayed at their house for just a week. She wanted to say more but I said it's totally okay aunt, we are here for you always. Consider us as your daughters. From today you have 3 daughters.

So yeah let's imagine some flashbacks before 8 years. She said our higher education is good for nothing because we won't give anything to our parents? That day I promised my mother that I will become a great doctor, a great person by heart and fulfill all of your dreams. From that day my only wish was to become a doctor because my sisters couldn't make it happen by luck. And because of that our society just made my sisters life miserable just because they couldn't fulfill their dreams. Today, look at me. I have become a great doctor and the interesting thing is that aunt's younger son is my junior doctor. We both learned how to become a good doctor but he didn't learn how to respect their precious parents who gave birth to him. We don't have any brother but see our parents are not staying in an old aged home. We aren't boys but we give our income happily to our parents and celebrate all the occasions together. My parents have not just 3 daughter's they have 3 son's now.

In society's language, we are just girls and we don't have any brother. But we are the happiest and the most successful people today with the most precious thing, "our parents prayers". AND MOST IMPORTANTLY I FULFILLED MY PROMISE AFTER BECOMING A GOOD DOCTOR AND A GOOD HUMAN BEING.
