

yavadoomingos

Riding trends

I am more like a reversal trader but want to be a momentum trader. It fits best with what I want and what I like. I think momentum traders are much easier for me because I don't have to worry about whether it will reverse or not as opposed to reversal traders.

I am also big-picture oriented.

Time availability

I would like to do scalps and swings at the moment, because right now I am taking one summer class twice a week, and it gives me enough time to watch the market, and when school starts, I'll only use swings.

Risk profile

I am more in the middle where I am willing to risk, but not to the point where I might lose everything. I want to have a low risk and high gains.

Asset class

I would like to trade momentum stocks and options.