A tree cannot be a tree if there is no object to which you are referencing. Then what does that make you? Can you still ponder this question? If so, does that mean you are the sole proprietor of existence? Have you become omnipotent and omnipresent in the moment of universal destruction simply for being that which remains? You meander through the sludge of emptiness, unsure of how to cope with a new and unending expanse of an idea you haven't needed to experience until now. Then, what glimmers in the remains of a distance, but a light, levitating among the nothing, a beacon of rejuvenation into any existence. How can you reach this light? There are no means by which to travel across this distance because there is no distance, there is nothing. But the light. It envelops you. It becomes your existence, your very meaning, your constant, your unending suffering and joy and heartfelt passion and hate and disgust. What was nothing is now white. A new kind of blank. No longer the absence of everything, now the presence of nothing. Suddenly, you are standing in white. How has it come to this? Blank. Space, new things which once were not now are, but only tease to the experience that you once know. How long ago was that? When a tree was a tree. We may never know, for t

- I. Nearly all initial patterns evolve into structures that interact in complex and interesting ways, with the formation of local structures that are able to survive for long periods of time.^[40] Class 2 type stable or oscillating structures may be the eventual outcome, but the number of steps required to reach this state may be very large, even when the initial pattern is relatively simple. Local changes to the initial pattern may spread indefinitely. Wolfram has conjectured that many class 4 cellular automata, if not all, are capable of universal computation. This has been proven for Rule 110 and Conway's Game of Life

Inside the Seed there are the Nutrients needed to birth another Squirrel and restart the progression of time since the Big Bang. As he climbs, he speaks to the Nut and breathes into its potential life by murmuring the kind and empowering words we all wish we could hear. Our Mother knew not of these words, for she was wrested in the foibles of joining the Elder Polymerase with the Crested New Seed. The Tree must always connect the Earth and the Sky, for there is no other bridge by which a Squirrel with Nut may traverse this great distance.

407. Walk the streets by moonlight, if you dare, and you will see the sinners then. Watch when the night is dark, and the wind is howling, and the thief is hiding in the door, and you will see sinners then. Go to the jail, and walk through the wards, and notice the men with heavy overhanging brows, men whom you would not like to meet at night, and there are sinners there. Go to the reformatories, and note those who have betrayed a rampant juvenile depravity, and you will see sinners there.

410. And for that, I say: why do we spend so much time doing exactly that which isn't, but in fact is the exact opposite of what it is. That's the thing! It isn't! We just think that to be is not exactly to see, and to see is not to free, to free oneself of exactly the thing that is there, with he or she and also elsewhere, for example, why is that so incessantly inert within that which is also such a proponent of extreme exertion without, with no knowledge of whether or not it truly requires the existence of a separate but equally influential force, unseen to the eye 🎨 that saw the very thing that came before it. And up until that point, such a breathtaking reality just refuses to partake in the colloquial existence it has known it to be, rather it makes the conscious decision to not, in fact, equate that which is with that which refuses to be anything of the sort, so perplexed and ambiguous it refutes the very knowledge and presence of the very ideas and thoughts which produced the whim upon which it was created in the first place.

Do you see?

The rambunctious virtue prevalent in the very nature of that being forces it to transform in a way that is so uncommon, even to the whimsical thoughts and ideas of the being's consciousness. In that very moment, something dies. The fabric, the silk that binds every minutia present in the concoction is torn, ripped from the ties that nature has begrudgingly forced upon it. Until, we notice, the being grows to retaliate, quite vehemently, might I add, upon the very silken fabric I have thusso described perpetually. Withholding any extreme or monotonous throws of whimsy, I say finally, do not do precisely what it is they want you to not, or rather, failed to prescribe to he or she in the moments they needest most, the very good of it all.

429. The Story of the Fox and the Actually Sour Grapes

430. One day, a wily fox spied a bunch of sour-looking grapes on a vine.
"I don't think I should eat those," said the Fox, "because they look pretty sour."
The Fox saw that even flies landing on the grapes to taste them left quickly with disgusted looks on their faces, almost as if the grapes really were sour.

431. A cunning Raven overheard the Fox saying this and challenged him:
"But Fox," said the Raven from above, "You couldn't reach the grapes even if you wanted to. This means they are not sour."
"No that's not what that means, also who was talking to you," said the Fox.
"Then why not try to reach them."
"Because I don't want to."
"Because you can't."
"It doesn't matter if I can't because I don't want them and I never did."
"No. You're just butter and you can't reach them."
"I've had grapes before. These ones look like sour ones."
"No they're good grapes," lied the Raven.
"I think you are lying," said the Fox. "I think you tried these grapes like an idiot and the gave you diarrhea and now you want the whole world to also have diarrhea and be poopy and stinky like you."
"No why would anyone want a thing like that. Who would do that. No one thinks like that you're so weird," said the Raven, shitting all over himself.

439. Quick proof :

Let $f: \mathbb{C} \rightarrow \mathbb{C}$ be entire. Then if f is bounded, then f is constant.

1. $f: \mathbb{C} \rightarrow \mathbb{C}$ is constant $\Leftrightarrow f'(z) = 0 \quad \forall z \text{ in } \mathbb{C}$

2. If f is bounded, $f'(z) = 0$ (Liouville's thm)

- ### 3. Fundamental Theorem of Algebra (FTA)

$$p(z) = a_n z^n + a_{n-1} z^{n-1} + \dots + a_1 z + a_0 \quad \text{where } a_0, a_1, \dots, a_n \text{ are elements of } \mathbb{C}, \text{ and } a_n \neq 0$$

Proof: We assume $p(z) \neq 0 \quad \forall \quad z \text{ in } \mathbb{C}$

$$1) \quad |p(z)| \rightarrow \infty \text{ as } |z| \rightarrow \infty$$

$$n \geq 1$$

$$|p(z)| \geq |a_n z^n| - |a_{n-1} z^{n+1} + \dots + a_1 z + a_0|$$

triangle inequality

$$\geq |a_n||z^n| - (|a_{n-1}z^{n+1}| + \dots + |a_1z| + |a_0|)$$

assume $z > 1$

$$\text{Let } a = \max \{ |a_{n-1}|, |a_{n-2}|, \dots, |a_0| \} \geq |a_n| |z^n| - a \, r^* z_0 n z |z_0| s^{n-1}$$

$$= |Z|^{n-1} (|a_n| |Z|^n - a^* n)$$

a^n is constant

$$\lim_{z \rightarrow \infty} |z|^{n-1} (|a_n||z^n| - a^* n) \rightarrow \infty$$

Since $|p(z)| \geq |z|^{n-1} (|a_n||z|^n - a * n)$, $|p(z)| \rightarrow \infty$

2) $f(z) = \frac{1}{p(z)}$, by assumption, $f(z)$ is entire, since $p(z) \neq 0$

$$|f(z)| \rightarrow \infty \text{ as } |z| \rightarrow \infty.$$

Is $f(z)$ bounded in chains and rope?

Suppose $f(z)$ is not bounded (in chainss),

$$\exists z_1 \text{ s.t. } |f(z_1)| > 1$$

(compact)

$$\exists z_2 \text{ s.t. } |f(z_2)| > 2$$

$$\{ |z_1|, |z_2|, \dots, |z_n|, \dots \} \subset [0, R) \text{ can't go}$$ to ∞ , it is bounded

...

$$\exists z_n \text{ s.t. } |f(z_n)| > n$$

F.T.A :

① $|p(z)| \rightarrow \infty$ as $|z| \rightarrow \infty$

② $\frac{1}{p(z)}$ is entire and bounded, assuming $p(z) \neq 0 \quad \forall z \text{ in } \mathbb{C}$

③ contradiction to liouville as $\frac{1}{p(z)}$ would be constant
