

DaVonn: Hear yee hear yee does anybody hear the, amount of senseless bullets flying through our city's air? It's so fair, so fair when you live in a country that don't even really care. Black people, never given anything. Except higher spot in the sky with a neck ringing by, and then the cry of all the broken hearted they just watchin the dangling body of their newly departed. Now A days its no different, police dress up in their blue just to ha-rass- you! And its crazy, how america got away with enslavement and now mass incarceration, this situation got me in amazement, more like a dazed stint sitting in the county while my baby girl is thinking bout me, I can't take it, the system I just want to break it. Ask Kwame Ture he'll fill ya in today. This country's ran by some sick ass people they lack all morals, and it really should be called treason. If you got a disagreement please voice it out proudly, I truly think there's no reason to justify Rodney... King said he had dream but that sniper beam ended everything that was in-between, bloody scene. You know the powers that be are mighty keen on taking out anyone that starts speaking out. I got some doubt about our future situation, can we ever stop our government's occupation?

Chorus: Why is "I can't breathe" not enough to open your eyes?
Pretending you don't see injustice you create?
only makes your badge a golden plaque of lies
on which you justify the honest lives you take.

My people we sitting in a cage, know we gotta rage, to affect the change. X2
My people of my age, we gotta get the change before our senile days.

Zack: take a minute to breathe before putting your lead into the nearest black man's chest
It's another action being furnished by an ill-willed passion, this doesn't just happen, its rooted in and trapped in a history of slavery, oppression, violence.
A whole people who had their voice silenced.
Hernstein and Murray tried to say it's just science
White elitists think that their giving some guidance
But that's the kind of attitude that leads to Tyrants Protect the people, we are all born equal, living in a world that can't see it's evil.
It seems like there's nowhere to turn
You can't say "you live and you learn"
If the only thing you know is how to throw all the kids in the system that's supposed to assist them, but labels them different,
then creates some distance from their racial existence.
It may not too mean much coming from a white man.
I never lived through it, but I cannot by-stand as 100 unarmed blacks are dead by your hands just because of preconceived notions you don't understand.

Chorus: Why is "I can't breathe" not enough to open your eyes?

Pretending you don't see injustice you create?

only makes your badge a golden plaque of lies

on which you justify the honest lives you take.

My people we sitting in a cage, know we gotta rage, to affect the change. X2

My people of my age, we gotta get the change before our senile days.

DaVonn: You pay your taxes, then the black get whacked its crazy no wonder so many impoverished people get called lazy. The media'll tell you they don't know how to act. He's just a thug, aint got no love. Shout out to michael brown, six feet in the ground, but you know that we gonna keep ya name in our mouths. For all the racist whites down south, or the one's closeted like a mouse. Imma raise my voice and announce my choice to say that all the government sanctioned killing is really crazy y'all, I don't understand why being black has to be wrong. That's the point of the song, if you figured it out, open ya mouth, speak out loud, don't be a clone letting ya family get strong armed for committing no true harm. Just wake up, we gonna sound the alarm, maybe we can be agents of change before too long.

Chorus: Why is "I can't breathe" not enough to open your eyes?

Pretending you don't see injustice you create?

only makes your badge a golden plaque of lies

on which you justify the honest lives you take. x2

My people we sitting in a cage, know we gotta rage, to affect the change. X2

My people of my age, we gotta get the change before our senile days.