

Tina Verdill's Story (January 14, 2022)...

I'm sporting my new magnetic therapy bracelet. My photo doesn't do justice, so posting website photos. However, it looks stunning with my earthly tattoo. 😊
I contemplated, for months, trying one. I've been angry, tense, on edge, exhausted, and achy. Just a rollercoaster of emotions.

You all know I'm a straight forward honest person. For months, I've cursed while driving, did not wait in lines anywhere, was short tempered with people/family/Sleuth/and mostly Doug. I'm also a spiritual, nature loving girl who's highly sensitive to Earth's energies. Winter is hardest for me due to lack of outdoors and nature. I lose my vibe.

Today was day one wearing bracelet. Within minutes I felt a vibration throughout my body. It felt refreshing, to be honest. Approximately one hour, or so, I felt very relaxed and a calm demeanor. At first I thought, "maybe it's because Doug isn't here" 😊🙋 So, I didn't give it anymore thought as I left for a grooming appt.

When leaving clients house in Treasure Lake (which is a peaceful area), then driving through Dubois (on a Friday afternoon), I'm sitting at stoplight and thought "why am I not cursing at anyone? Did I curse while driving earlier?" I realized I did not.

I was feeling hungry, scoping food signs and spotted Subway. Stopped to get a sub to go. While 'waiting' in line, I decided to get a sub for Doug also. I was patient, polite and grateful for their service.

(Keep in mind, NONE of the above would have happened over previous months)

Again, I'm driving through traffic, sitting at stoplights, patiently following cars, and think, "what is wrong with me? Why didn't I pass that car when able? Did I actually stop and wait in line for food?" 🙄

At that point, I saw a message from the amazing friend who sold the bracelet to me. It clicked!

Could a bracelet be that effective? I thought, "I guess we'll find out once Doug is home" 😊

Doug arrived home soon after me. I did not give any thought when he came inside and told him supper was in fridge. We conversed, then parted to our separate living rooms.

I sat on couch, realizing my shoulder didn't ache all day (which has for over a month). Then, decided to post about bracelet and 💡🔥...."Holy shit! I did not snap at Doug, curse or feel irritated by his existence...err.... presence!" 🤪

It's safe to say, the bracelet gave me an attitude adjustment as well as less anxiety, and relieved my aches. ❤️❤️

I'm adding the link, with more information and many bracelets to choose from, including for men, pets, and other healing products. If you have questions, Stacey Lynn Schulz Buchholz will be happy to assist you! Keep in mind, my experiences may differ from yours but regardless, I made the right decision to buy one. ✌️

Go check out the link! ⬇️

<https://natureshealinglinks.selz.com/>