Abstract
The abstract must be written in a single paragraph in both Indonesian and English, with a maximum length of 250 words. Each abstract should incorporate five key elements: the background of the problem, the research objectives, the methodology employed, the research findings, and the conclusion.

Keywords: Article, Contents, Format*

Abstrak
Abstrak disajikan dalam satu paragraf menggunakan bahasa Indonesia dan bahasa Inggris, dengan jumlah kata tidak melebihi 200 kata. Setiap abstrak harus memuat lima komponen utama, yaitu latar belakang permasalahan, tujuan penelitian, metode yang digunakan, hasil penelitian, dan kesimpulan.

Kata Kunci: Artikel, Isi, Format*

Introduction

The introduction should address three main aspects: (1) the problem under investigation; (2) the significance and urgency of examining the problem; and (3) the approach adopted by the author to discuss and analyze the issue. To meet these requirements, authors should consider the following guidelines.

First, authors should clearly present the central issue addressed in the article, its background, and the article's position within the existing body of research. This may involve explaining how the article relates to previously published studies or scholarly works, briefly reviewing relevant literature, and identifying the originality or distinctive contribution of the present study.

Second, authors should elaborate on the key aspects of the issue being examined. This section may also explain the rationale for addressing the problem and specify the objectives of the article. The purpose is to demonstrate the scholarly contribution of the work and establish the significance of the issue as a subject worthy of academic publication.

Third, authors should briefly describe the methodology or analytical methods employed to examine the issue. This description may include the research approach, methodological framework, or theoretical perspective used in the discussion.

Citations should follow the in-text citation (author–date) format, as illustrated by the following examples: (Muntner, P. et al., 2018), (Marchlewska et al., 2019), (Cichocka, 2016; Hidayat & Khalika, 2019; Ikhwan, 2019; Madjid, 2002), (Miller & Josephs, 2009, p. 12), or Rakhmat (1989). Further details on citation formatting are provided in the final section of this guideline. All symbols and abbreviations used in the article must be clearly defined when they first appear in the text.

Method

Method should contain: (1) research design and approach used, (2) population and sample (research subject/respondents), (3) instrument and data collection technique, and (4) Data analysis techniques used.

Result and Discussion

The title should correspond to the subject matter or description of the research question. This section contains the research findings and discussion related to the first research question. In the research findings section, present the obtained results first without including the author's personal interpretations or a literature review. The discussion section explains the research findings in relation to the research questions, interprets the findings, and compares or relates the findings to the referenced theories.

Conclusion

This section presents a summary of the results and discussion, with reference to the research objectives. Based on these two elements, new key ideas are developed that constitute the essence of the research findings.

Next, recommendations are presented. These recommendations are formulated based on the research findings that have been discussed. Recommendations may pertain to practical actions, the development of new theories, and/or further research.

Declaration

Conflicts of Interest : The authors declare no conflict of interest.

Generative AI Statement : No Generative AI Used:

No generative artificial intelligence (AI) tools were employed in any aspect of this research or the preparation of the manuscript.

AI Used for Limited, Non-Substantive Support:

Generative AI tools, such as Grammarly and Microsoft Copilot, were employed solely for language editing and minor phrasing enhancements. All conceptualization, analysis, and scholarly content were independently developed and verified by the authors.

Funding Statement : This work received no specific grant from any public, commercial, or not-for-profit funding agency.

Author Contributions : This section has to describe each author's contributions, such as conceptualization, methodology, software, validation, formal analysis, investigation, resources, data curation, writing – original draft, writing – review & editing, visualization, supervision, project administration, and funding acquisition. Please see https://www.elsevier.com/authors/policies-and-guidelines/credit-author-statement for each explanation. Below is a sample of how to write this section:

Author One: Conceptualization, writing - original draft, editing, and visualization; Author Two: Writing - review & editing, formal analysis, and methodology; Author Three: Validation and supervision.
