

#Follow-up number 2

SL: What's wrong, Jeremiah?

I talked to you about a Thanos-like, turbo-powerful tool that could help you anytime capture people's (who are looking to sell their houses in New York) interest and lead them to request an offer from you.

I also showed you transparently:

How we can build this amazing marketing tool from scratch in your business.

How we can easily crash your "well-known" iBuyers opponents (who are only making 50-30% profits from this tool) by generating 100% earnings with the help of a professional,

if you just responded to my messages with a day we could meet.

And yet, you didn't reply.

I wanna help you clear some of your "maybe" objections against the help I'm offering you.

"He is only asking for money."

No.

I'm not one of those gurus who will take your money and run,

Who is trying to sell you something, or who will promise you that you will beat Elon Musk's net worth in a week, months (or years.)

Instead, I want to meet you, understand your business goals and problems, and honestly tell you whether this million-dollar valuable tool can help you or not.

"This guy is calling himself Professor X; I don't know if that is true... "

Demographically, no.

But skillfully, yes, I am.

If you are interested in our free meeting, I will be ready for our call any day in the next four days.

Except for Sunday, because then I will be mowing my garden.

With energy,

Ahmed.

P.S. Respond to this email (if you seriously want to know how we can utilize this "Holy Grill" marketing tool to help you rank Suffolk Country House Buyers as the top iBuyer in New York) by choosing a day we can meet.

P.P.S. Scheduling on me since I'm currently overseas. No worries, we'll sync up for the perfect time for our call.
