NAZARETH UNIVERSITY

Communication Sciences & Disorders Department
4245 East Avenue
585-389-2772 phone
Rochester, NY 14618 585-389-2791 fax
www.naz.edu/csd

The Communication Sciences and Disorders Department invites applications for a part-time clinical education position. The Clinical Educator supervises graduate students in the Nazareth University Neurogenic Communication and Cognition Clinic. This position will require supervision for one or two days a week depending on availability. The CSD Department strongly supports the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion. Prior experience with supervision is preferred and demonstrated success with diverse communities, clients, and students will be valued highly.

Brief Description of Duties and Responsibilities:

- Supervise graduate students according to ASHA standards, including direct supervision of diagnostic and therapy sessions, therapy planning, evaluation of student clinical performance, and review of student documentation.
- Guide students' clinical learning in a high-volume, fast-paced campus-based clinic.
- Interact with clients and families regarding clinical services.
- Coordinate and collaborate as part of an interprofessional team with clinical services in other Nazareth College clinics.

Qualifications:

- Master's degree in Speech-Language Pathology
- ASHA Certificate of Clinical Competence in Speech-Language Pathology
- New York State licensure as an SLP
- Experience with the adult neurogenic population
- Previous clinical supervision experience is preferred
- Experience working as part of an Interprofessional team
- Minimum of two hours of clinical supervision training as required per ASHA 2020 Certification Standards

Application materials should include the following:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Reference List (3)

Please email the application materials to Lisa Hiley, at lhiley1@naz.edu or mail to:

Lisa Hiley, PhD, CCC-SLP
Associate Professor and Chairperson
Nazareth University Communication Sciences and Disorders
4245 East Avenue
Rochester, NY 14618