Lore: Fire Foxes appeared, much like ghosts, emerging from the steam and ash they suddenly materialized around the Blacksand Annex. As though they had one day walked out of the flowing lava, magma reincarnate.

No one seems to know where they come from, because they'd have noticed the trouble that seems to follow this species; they find delight in stirring up mischief. Still, suddenly, here they were, although few in numbers, prominently there.

No one could miss the elegant beings, as graceful in flight as they were at playing jokes. Sly and cunning, as a fox, and just as strong and powerful as the fiery wasteland they originate.

Not much is known about these mysterious creatures or the secrets of where they came from, however Dragons can speculate. Some say, they are the creation of the Flame Caller himself!

I, Dauntless666, agree to the public use of my project.
