

----- Session Start ---- Dark Paths of Riddleport #31 ----- 130616 -----

The Crew has accepted Zinchers offer to move into his camp for better protection and has begun talking about how to go about capturing the strange, tentacled beasts....

But first, aided by the huge Akron Erix and several of Zincher's men, the Crew heads back to their camp to retrieve their supplies and the Cyphermages.

Erix and Zincher's men show you a much more direct path they had discovered and widened out leading toward the area of the docks. It passes quite close to the crater site and is apparently the path they have been using to search for the skymetal.

You arrive back at the camp in just an hours hike, much quicker and less tiresome than the several hour hike that would have lead up and over the top of Witchlight.

Samaritha and Harik are happy that you had returned. They tell you that just about an hour or so ago, a handful of the strange tentacled beasts had charged down the hillside toward the camp. The Cyphermages had quickly retreated inside the protective barrier of Snargash's mystic mist spell.

Harik seems relieved to hear that they will be relocating to a larger, more defensible camp, though Samaritha is not as excited.

* Samaritha Beldusk whispers to Bodi.

Samaritha Beldusk: Do you trust Zincher and his men? They are cutthroats and backstabbers, don't you think?

Everyone quickly gathers up the stacked gear and supplies and puts them in the available wheel barrows for the trip back to the other camp.

* Bodi whispers back....Trust them? Not in the least....but he's giving us a task that he clearly thinks will get us killed off and out of his hands.....and I think we can turn this into profit

* Samaritha Beldusk shrugs.

Samaritha Beldusk: I hope you're right.

Aethel: No, I don't trust them. I expect them to attempt to take anything of value we've found if they get the opportunity

Bodi: He probably has some trick up his sleeve, but we are still here for something else.....something even Zincher doesn't know about

* Bodi wants to secure their equipment, restock on water and make sure everyone is all on the same page with things.

* Aragon grabs his meager belongings and slings them over one shoulder. He assists with any of the group's equipment as well.

Everything is loaded. Zincher's men, while a bit dour and quiet, work with a determined efficiency. The group heads back toward the other camp with just over an hour of daylight left.

Bodi: Bodi is winded after the hike. and has 10 out of 12 FP remaining.

Bodi, spending far too much time watching Samaritha, has a bit of a rough hike back to Zincher's.

About halfway back to the camp, after turning away from the shoreline, one of Zincher's men up toward the front gives a warning cry!

Man 01: Here they come again! Watch out!

Bodi: here who comes again?

Aragon: zombies or lions?

Up ahead, you see one of the purple lion creatures running silently down the hill at the party.

Bodi: lions? with the tentacles?

Bodi: how quickly can you guys open up a hole in the ground that we can trap one underneath?

Guy: I couldn't do it nearly fast enough

Bodi: can you do it that we could lure it into one?

* Bodi draws blades

* Aragon watches how Erix prepares for battle. He wants to see if he can learn anything about his style of fighting.

Akron Erix: Dammit.

* Akron Erix looks around quickly.

Akron Erix: There may be more, we've always encountered them in packs!

Akron Erix: If there's anyway to capture them alive, let's do it, but otherwise, defend yourselves.

Bodi: of course there's more.....always expect more. To arms!

Bodi: oh, okay thanks for the advice brainiac

* Akron Erix handily pulls his maul from over his shoulder and steps up into a fighting stance. Aragon has received initiative.
