U.S. CAMPUS POLICY GRADEBOOK

Centering health, safety, and education in campus policies

Introduction

Students for Sensible Drug Policy advocates for campus policies which center student health, safety, and education rather than punitive enforcement of laws and campus regulations which deny students access to education and needlessly expose young to the dangers of the carceral system, law enforcement practices such as the use of confidential informants, and overdose.

Every weekend across the U.S., 21 million college students make choices about how they are going to party. Will it be a sober night, or will they choose to consume alcohol or another drug of unknown origin, potency, or composition regardless of rules or prohibitions against doing so? Based on government data about drug use, we can conservatively estimate that, each month, 12 million students choose to consume alcohol, 4 million choose to use marijuana, and another 4 million will choose another drug.

Colleges and universities are obligated to protect the lives of students in loco parentis and must acknowledge the plain fact that students will use -- and sometimes misuse -- drugs and alcohol despite decades of efforts to eliminate such behaviors. Drug policies based in harm reduction ensure the millions of students who will inevitably choose to use alcohol or other drugs have a better chance of safely making it to graduation.

> Throughout the nation, colleges have been embracing practices that focus on safeguarding, rather than punishing, students who abuse alcohol or illicit drugs, often at the suggestion of students themselves. Such institutions stress that their intent is not to be permissive, and that their rules against underage drinking and illicit-drug possession remain in effect. Nevertheless, faced with the persistent risk of alcohol-related student deaths, a national upsurge in opioid overdoses, and nationwide spates of medical emergencies among consumers of "club drugs," the colleges have been showing a willingness to suspend enforcement of their rules if necessary to keep students from being harmed. - Schmidt, Peter (2016, September 13). Colleges Embrace Streetwise Tactics to Prevent Substance-Abuse Deaths. The Chronicle of Higher Education. http://www.chronicle.com/article/Colleges-Embrace-Streetwise/237763

Students for Sensible Drug Policy publishes the U.S. Campus Drug Policy Gradebook as a resource for students, administrators, and other members of campus communities who seek to ground their approach to drugs in health, safety, and education.

U.S. Campus Policy Grading Criteria

Medical Amnesty Policies (35 points)

A full medical amnesty policy is defined as an explicitly stated and publicized policy which protects victims,callers, and bystanders in alcohol and drug related emergencies from legal or school sanctions. Medical amnesty policies save lives by removing the fear of calling for help during alcohol or other drug related emergencies, greatly increasing the likelihood that such an event is survivable and, in the case of ongoing substance misuse, a student will participate in counseling and thereby reduce the risk of additional events.

FERPA and parental notification

Under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), schools are permitted to contact a student's parents or guardians without the student's consent when he or she has violated laws or institutional policies regarding the use of alcohol or drugs. As such, even if "parental notification" is not a listed sanction for a particular school, such notification is still possible. We acknowledge parents or guardians can provide an important support for students struggling with alcohol or other drugs. However, parental notification assumes parents are equipped to handle a complex health problem, the student-parent relationship is characterized by healthy communication, and the relationship with the parent or guardian is not a contributing factor to drug misuse. Additionally, such laws violate the privacy of legal adults, undermine the relationship of trust between students and their school, and discourage students from seeking help from campus health resources.

Drug Education and Information (20 points)

The most effective drug education is evidence-based, founded in the principles of harm reduction, readily available via multiple delivery channels, and delivered by peers. SSDP's Just Say Know peer-to-peer drug education meets these criteria and is available on campuses nationwide.

Naloxone access on campus (10 points)

The opioid overdose reversal drug Naloxone should be available from the student health center and carried by resident advisors and campus safety officers.

Sanctions for use or possession of alcohol and other drugs (15 points)

Academic, legal, or financial sanctions for use or possession of drugs do not reduce drug use, and particularly do not reduce problematic drug use. Instead, they isolate and stigmatize drug users and impede their ability to succeed. Ideal policies are built on supportive, stabilizing strategies such as evidence-based counseling and do not, in the absence of other dangerous behavior, contain the types of sanctions historically relied upon by institutions such as eviction, suspension or expulsion, forced treatment, or mandatory fines which could lead to such sanctions.

Resident advisor discretion (10 points)

Resident advisors should be trained to recognize the signs of problematic drug use and responsible for providing support in such cases but should be permitted discretion in all others. They should not be permitted to engage in violations of privacy such as bag searches.

Additional criteria

- 5 points: The student government is able to pass resolutions changing or requesting changes to campus policy
- 4 points: The campus offers a complimentary safe rides program
- 1 point: The campus does not have an absolute smoking ban

A note on federal funding, compliance with law, and drug policies

It is commonly believed that colleges and universities must maintain and enforce punitive drug and alcohol policies to maintain funding. In order to receive federal funding and comply with the Higher Education Act, schools are required to state their policies regarding drugs and alcohol. Many colleges also list the possible legal penalties for alcohol and drug violations. As these statements are required to receive funding, the statements are not interpreted to be relevant to the relative stringency of campus drug and alcohol policies.

Good Samaritan policy (17.5 of 40 points)

"Because the university understands that fear of possible disciplinary action may unnecessarily deter certain requests for emergency assistance, students who report such emergencies will not be found responsible for alcohol or drug-related policy violations provided the above protocol is followed.

However, the incident will be documented, and educational, community, and health interventions as well as contact with a student's parents or family may be required. The protocol does not protect repeated, flagrant, or serious violations of the Code of Student Conduct or other university policies (including physical or sexual assault, violence, hazing, harassment, theft, or vandalism or instances where multiple individuals need medical attention), nor does it preclude or prevent action by police or other legal authorities. Only an individual student (including an individual member of a student organization) may receive amnesty under this policy. "4.3.3 Seeking Help for Alcohol- and Drug-Related Medical Emergencies
The health and safety of Boston College students is of paramount concern. As a result, all students are expected and encouraged to seek immediate assistance for themselves or others in situations where help is needed due to intoxication or drug ingestion.

Students should actively seek assistance for themselves or others, as a result of impairment due to alcohol and/or drug use. Boston College will support and encourage this help-seeking behavior by treating the situation as a health and safety matter, rather than a conduct matter, when students contact emergency responders or university officials (e.g., Resident Assistant, Boston College Police). Additionally, anyone who seeks help or calls for help on behalf of another student will not be subject to action through the conduct system.

Students who seek and receive medical attention in such situations will be required to complete certain educational and/or counseling interventions and will also be subject to all fees related to their medical care. Failure to complete these referrals would be treated as a conduct matter.

Students who demonstrate consistent and repeated patterns of seeking help for alcohol and drug related medical emergencies may require further medical review and/or treatment up to mandated medical leaves of absence.

Regardless of help-seeking behavior, students will be held accountable for misconduct accompanying or incidental to the use and/or abuse of alcohol or other substances. For example, disorderly behavior, violence, property damage, or distribution or intent to distribute will be treated as conduct violations and will be responded to accordingly."

California Polytechnic State University Pomona: C-

California State Polytechnic University Pomona is a public institution in Pomona, California with an enrollment of 25,894 students and was most recently graded in July 2018.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

"The unlawful possession, use, manufacture, distribution, or sale of illicit drugs or drug-related paraphernalia, tobacco or alcohol, and the misuse of legal pharmaceutical drugs or alcohol by any faculty, staff, recognized auxiliary employee, student, registered student club or organization, campus entity, visitor or visiting organization is strictly prohibited in the workplace, on University premises, at University activities, or on University business, on campus or off. Any faculty, staff, student or student organization, campus entity, visitor or visiting organization that violates this policy is subject to disciplinary action as set forth in the following and/or will be referred to the appropriate authorities for legal prosecution."

This policy is created to comply with the Drug-Free Workplace and Drug-Free Schools & Communities Act Amendments of 1989 (Public Law 101-226), which requires the University to adopt and implement a program to prevent the unlawful use and/or abuse of drugs or alcohol by faculty, staff and students and to set forth standards to provide a safe, healthy, and productive community setting for work and study.

The purpose of this policy is to describe University standards of conduct concerning alcohol and drugs, communicate the health risks and other legal and disciplinary consequences of failing to adhere to University standards of conduct, and provide information as to available assistance and resources."

"The goal of “Safety First” is to ensure that students receive prompt medical attention for any health or safety emergency, and to ensure there are no impediments to reporting incidents of alcohol or other drug intoxication, harassment, violence or assault (including physical or sexual). A Safety First policy benefits our campus by encouraging students to make responsible decisions in seeking medical attention in serious or life-threatening situations that result from alcohol and/or other drug abuse and in any situation where medical treatment is reasonably believed to be appropriate. If a student is so intoxicated or drugged that the student is incoherent and/or unable to be awakened, letting the student “sleep it off” is not a reasonable alternative to getting the student the necessary medical help. Failing to seek assistance for a fellow student who appears to be dangerously impaired due to drug or alcohol abuse may result in sanctions."

Good Samaritan policy (10 of 40 points)

"A student should not hesitate to report an incident of possible alcohol poisoning or other drug overdose due to concerns about potential disciplinary action for violating the Standards for Student Conduct. Student safety and health are paramount considerations. Obtaining necessary medical assistance could be considered a mitigating factor on a case-by-case basis when evaluating the imposition of campus disciplinary charges for consuming or providing alcohol or other drugs. Even if no disciplinary charges are imposed, students may still be required to participate in educational programs designed to promote student safety. This protocol does not preclude disciplinary action for other violations such as assault, hazing, or sexual misconduct that might arise from the same incident."

Memorandum on Chicago-Kent's Drug Policies

Students For Sensible Drug Policy ("SSDP") is an international association of student organizations that is concerned about the negative impact of drugs on communities but also firmly committed to ending the war on drugs. This memo applies a campus drug policy gradebook provided by SSDP to evaluate Chicago-Kent's policies.

Summary of Chicago-Kent's Drug Policy

Chicago-Kent's drug policy is premised on abstinence of substances other than alcohol.[1] The Illinois Institute of Technology has "a comprehensive drug free awareness program to inform employees and students about the dangers of drug and alcohol use" and provides free counseling to all students.[2] Looking at the information the Student Health Center publishes regarding the drug free awareness program, there is an abundance of resources concerning drug addiction and treatment, but not much concerning harm reduction or drug safety.[3]

The Chicago-Kent Code of Conduct grants broad discretion to the Law School Discipline Tribunal to punish students for drug related activities.[4] The Code of Conduct grants the Tribunal the power to expel, suspend, or impose any sanction it deems appropriate.[5] Notations on transcripts are mandatory unless the Tribunal unanimously votes otherwise.[6] Regardless of the occurrence of such a vote, violations are reported to appropriate licensing authorities.[7] There is no written mandatory reporting to law enforcement, but there are anonymous publication requirements.[8] If the prosecutor determines that the prosecution of a violation would not be in the best interests of the law school, the Prosecutor has the discretion not to proceed with the case.[9]

A drug related violation must meet two conditions. First, it must either "(a) affect or threaten to affect another IIT student or a member of the faculty, staff or administration of IIT; or (b) occur on IIT premises or at a function sponsored by IIT or by an IIT student organization"[10] Second, the drug related violation must include "[s]elling, distributing, manufacturing, using, or possessing illegal drugs . . . [OR] [v]iolating federal, state, or municipal laws on university premises (or in university residence halls) in a way that adversely affects the functioning of the university."[11]

There is no medical amnesty policy in the Code of Conduct. The Code may be amended upon the affirmative vote by a majority of the faculty members after the proposed amendment has been circulated for student comments.[12]

Campus safety is training their personnel to administer naloxone in cases of opiate or opioid overdose. Some of the "watch commanders" have already been trained. They are training the rest of their first responders, at least on the main campus, over the next few months. A representative from campus safety said that they will be training the officers that work at other campuses, such as the law school, after they train the first responders at the primary campus. They did not offer a hard date on when that will be happening.

The Student Health Center does not carry naloxone or make it available to students.

Analysis

SSDP has a 100-point gradebook,[13] but I believe that only 70 points apply because Chicago-Kent is a law school without a campus where a majority of students reside. Chicago-Kent receives 10 points.

Since Chicago-Kent has no medical amnesty policy, it loses out on around one third of the points in the SSDP gradebook. Medical amnesty policies remove barriers for students who need to seek medical attention for impaired friends or for themselves in alcohol or drug related emergencies. Under medical amnesty policies, students are protected from punitive actions if the seek medical attention, which can reduce harm by eliminating hesitation due to fear of penalties. While it might seem unlikely that a student would overdose on the law school campus, it is not inconceivable, and the Code of Conduct already contemplates the possibility of drug use on campus. The broad language "affect" another student also leaves one wondering what would happen if a law student who lived on the main campus called campus safety to administer naloxone to another student. Or even a student who called 911 in their own apartment after partying with another student. The prosecutor could prosecute either student if it came to their attention and they were using, sharing, or in possession of drugs.

It is true that the code seems intended to deter people from endangering one another, but it is plausible that professional and academic consequences that might flow from a violation could cause hesitation in a student who needed help. In an overdose situation, seconds and minutes matter. It is also doubtful that punishing people results in less or less dangerous drug use.

SSDP recommends a medical amnesty policy that applies to alcohol and drugs, shields the victim, the caller, and any bystanders from penalties, and has no frequency restrictions. They recommend the school have a policy of not notifying parents or law enforcement about the incident. Although medical amnesty is arguably less of an issue at a law school where most students do not live at residences in which calling for help would mean notifying campus authorities of the situation, I still think it could be an important conversation to have as a student body. Getting a policy on the books could raise awareness by reducing fears about calling for help and encouraging people to carry naloxone if they or anyone they know uses opiates, even occasionally.

Another place where there is room for improvement is naloxone access. Particularly at the student health center, it would be great to see them keep that in stock and make sure students who use opiates that come through their doors walk out with naloxone. A representative from the Student health Center stated that they do not have a pharmacy and for that reason would not carry a drug like naloxone, but naloxone can be purchased without a prescription and can be disseminated by absolutely anybody. Administering naloxone is as simple as using a nasal spray (it is in fact offered a nasal spray). Additionally, it would be good to stay in touch with campus safety to ensure that they follow through with their plans to train law school campus safety officers.

SSDP recommends a peer-to-peer drug education program. IIT has accurate and evidence-based information available on their websites and presumably through the third-party counseling center they have hired to provide care to Kent students. But SSDP suggests that students are the best people to disseminate information about drugs because students are most likely turning to one another about such topics in the first place. Additionally, SSDP does not take an abstinence-only approach to its drug education, unlike IIT, and as such can address issues of harm reduction that are not considered in abstinence-only programs.

Conclusion

There is work to be done at Chicago-Kent to make it a safer and more aware place when it comes to drugs and drug safety. This memo was intended to appraise you of some of the issues I identified. Comments or feedback are appreciated. I am still processing the information and trying to think about what aspects of it are worth working to improve upon and which items should be prioritized if any. There are eight chapters in Illinois, all of them formed in the past five years. If there is sincere interest from my colleagues, I would be invested in starting one at Chicago-Kent to achieve some of the aims laid out in this memo. If people have other ideas for what they would want to see from an SSDP at Chicago-Kent, that would of course be welcome.

College of Charleston: C

College of Charleston is a private institution in Charleson, SC with an enrollment of 11,000 and was most recently graded in September 2016.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

“The College of Charleston is concerned with both the welfare of the College community and the academic and personal development of each student. The College strives to create a healthy environment where the illegal and/or improper use of drugs does not interfere with learning performance, or development. Abuse of drugs disrupts this environment and places at risk the lives and well-being of the members of the College community, as well as the potential for students to contribute to society... Since there are numerous means by which the use of drugs may adversely affect both students and the College community, it is important that the College issue to all students a clear statement of policy concerning the illegal and/or improper use of drugs.”

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

"Alcohol abuse and illegal drug use can pose significant safety, health, and well-being problems within the Mines working and learning environment. The federal Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989 (P.L. 101-226) requires annual notice to the campus community of specific requirements of the law applicable to both students and employees. This policy addresses the following:
• Standards of conduct that clearly prohibit, at a minimum, the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol by students and employees on its property or as part of its activities.
• The School's commitment to imposing disciplinary sanctions on students and employees consistent with local, state, and federal law, and a description of those sanctions, up to and including expulsion or termination of employment and referral for criminal prosecution.
• A description of the applicable legal sanctions under local, state, or federal law for the unlawful possession or distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol (for students and employees).
• A description of the health risks associated with the use of illicit drugs and the abuse of alcohol.
• A description of alcohol and other drugs (AOD) counseling, treatment, or rehabilitation or re-entry programs available to employees and students.
• The School's commitment to conducting a biennial review of its program. Employees, like students, are covered under the Drug Free Schools and Communities Act, and are subject to this policy. In addition to reviewing this policy, employees should also review the Mines' Drug Free Workplace Policy."

Good Samaritan policy (27.5 of 40 points)

“According to the school's Responsible Community Action policy, fulfilling the medical amnesty policy requires calling public safety and staying with the afflicted until emergency help arrives. It reads students receiving medical assistance, students reporting, others involved, as well as groups and organizations actively seeking assistance are "not subject to disciplinary action for use or possession of alcohol or drugs."

In order for this policy to apply however, the receiver of medical assistance is obligated to complete recommended education activities, assessment, or treatment. Receivers of medical assistance are also required to attend BASICS program, and repeated incidents or failure to complete follow-up may result in disciplinary action. At events, incidents require the hosting group/organization to hold a meeting with advisor and ResLife staff, and may have to participate in educational or training programs as well as agree to implement recommended steps to address areas of concern. Howard University is a private institution in Washington, D.C with an enrollment of 6883 students and was most recently graded in January 2018.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

"Howard University alcohol and drug policy is consistent with applicable federal, state and local laws. University policy prohibits the unlawful manufacture, distribution, dispensation, possession, or use of any controlled substance or illicit drug by students, faculty and staff on or off its property or as a part of campus activities. To that end, Howard University wants students, faculty and staff to be informed about the possible consequences of their actions and the risks they take regarding the penalties imposed under University policies and local, state and federal laws for alcohol and drug abuse. This document complies with a federal law requirement and is distributed annually to students, faculty, staff and other members of the University community."

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (10 of 40 points)

This school does not protect its students with an explicitly stated medical amnesty policy. The only amnesty policy for alcohol consumption is in the event of an individual reporting a sexual assault: "In order to encourage reporting and remove barriers to doing so, any individual who reports Prohibited Conduct under this policy, either as a Complainant or as a third party witness, will not be subject to disciplinary action by the University for their own personal consumption of alcohol or drugs at or near the time of the incident-"
For clarity, there is also a vague stipulation that suggests that students who admit to abusing drugs/alcohol can seek forms of treatment without consequences, but it is not clear how this is applied: "members of the University community suffering from substance abuse problems or having concerns in this area are encouraged to seek help without fear of punitive consequences."

The Hoosier P.A.C.T. (Proactive Alcohol Care and Treatment) Policy:
In alcohol and/or other substance related emergencies, Hoosier P.A.C.T. seeks to mitigate deterring consequences for the intoxicated student as well as the student(s) and/or the recognized student organization seeking medical attention on behalf of the intoxicated student. The purpose of P.A.C.T. is not to exonerate students and/or organizations from disciplinary action, rather the P.A.C.T. favors educationally-based, reformation-minded University responses to these frightening incidents. The proposed code will foster a culture in which individuals feel comfortable calling for help on behalf of those in need of need assistance, saving Hoosier lives.

Individual: In an alcohol-related and/or substance emergency, a student requiring medical attention will not be subject to disciplinary sanctions if the student successfully completes an educational program under the jurisdiction of the Office of the Dean of Students. Reoccurring offenses will be subject to the discretion of the Office of the Dean of Students.

Caller: An individual seeking emergency assistance on behalf of a student in an alcohol and/or substance related emergency will not be subject to disciplinary sanctions in relation to the incident provided the caller stays with the individual until medical assistance arrives."

Johns Hopkins University: C

John Hopkins University is a private institution in Baltimore, MD with an enrollment of 7,567 and was most recently graded in October 2021

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

" The University, in keeping with its basic mission, recognizes that its primary response to issues of alcohol and drug abuse must be through educational programs, as well as through intervention and treatment efforts. In addition to providing appropriate educational programs throughout the year, each division of the University will include such programs as part of its orientation for new students.
The University further recognizes that alcoholism and drug addiction are illnesses that are not easily resolvable by personal effort and may require professional assistance and/ or treatment. Participation in such programs may be required of a student as a "condition of continual enrollment." The University will adhere to strict policies of confidentiality for all participants in drug/ alcohol abuse rehabilitation programs as described in University and Federal regulations covering confidentiality of student health records. Maryland and District of Columbia laws prohibit the possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages by persons under the age of 21. The possession, use, or distribution of illegal drugs as defined by federal, state, and local statutes is prohibited.
Students are expected to obey the law. Individuals who violate the law, in addition to being subject to criminal penalties, may be subject to University disciplinary measures. The University will not excuse acts of misconduct committed by students whose judgment is impaired due to alcohol or drug abuse."

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (20 of 40 points)

" To encourage students to immediately seek necessary medical attention or assistance for themselves or others in need, the University will not impose disciplinary action for a violation of student alcohol or drug policies against individual students or Recognized Student Groups/Organizations when they report to or seek assistance from the University or law enforcement for a medical emergency or condition, or against the student who is subject of such medical emergency or condition, if: (1) the University determines that the violation occurred during or near the time of the alleged medical emergency or condition; (2) the student or Recognized Student Group/Organization is determined to have made the report or sought assistance in good faith; and (3) the University determines that the violation was not an act that was reasonably likely to place the health or safety of another individual at risk. However, repeated or serious medical emergencies arising from or in connection with Parties may result in disciplinary action against students and/or Recognized Student Groups/Organizations under applicable procedures.

This amnesty does not preclude disciplinary action for other violations of applicable policies including but not limited to the University Sexual Misconduct Policy and Procedures, and applicable student codes of conduct. Further, it does not preclude action by local, state and federal authorities.

In order for amnesty to apply, a student must agree to timely completion of any recommended alcohol and other drug educational requirements, assessment, treatment (depending on the level of concern for student health and safety), and/or other corrective measures. Similarly, Recognized Student Groups/Organizations must agree to implement any measures for responsible hosting of Parties in a timely manner, and to complete any recommended educational and training requirements and/or other corrective measures.

Typically, the student and/or Recognized Student Group/Organization will first attend a mandatory meeting with a staff member of the Homewood Office of Student Life. This meeting is not considered a part of the disciplinary process, but rather an opportunity to discuss corrective measures around the student's and/or Recognized Student Group's/Organization's decisions related to alcohol or other drugs. Repeated or serious incidents will result in additional corrective measures from the Homewood Office of Student Life. A failure to complete any corrective measures may result in disciplinary action against students and/or Recognized Student Groups/Organizations, up to and including revocation of recognition as a University recognized student group or organization.

A failure to seek assistance for a member of our community in medical need may have serious and lasting consequences for that individual. Disciplinary sanctions will be severe for any student and/or student group/organization who interfere with an individual's attempt or ability to take responsible action."

LIM College is a private institution with an enrollment of 1,595 students and was most recently graded in January 2023

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (22.5 of 40 points)

"A medical withdrawal leave is granted to a student whose physical or mental/psychological health prevents successful study and must be taken for at least one semester, but no longer than five years, following the semester of approved leave, but no longer than five years, from the date of departure. To be granted a medical leave of absence, a student must first consult the Director of Counseling Services to discuss the request. Students on a medical leave must be actively engaged in a course of treatment that leads to recovery. Proof of treatment will be required prior to approval for the student to return to the College. An approved medical leave does not relieve the student of his/her financial responsibilities to LIM College. Students receiving financial aid are strongly advised to meet with Student Financial Services staff to discuss the financial implications of taking a medical withdrawal.

All requests for withdrawal require thorough and credible documentation, which includes:
A written request for a medical withdrawal, from the student, which outlines the medical condition, the ways the condition has interfered with the student's ability to be successful and the steps taken or intended, for addressing the condition.
A current letter, on letterhead paper, from a licensed M.D., D.O., Clinical Psychologist, Mental Health Counselor or Social Worker that includes:

- a detailed diagnosis of the medical condition, including the diagnosis code.
- a statement indicating it is medically necessary that the student withdraws from classes.
- the specific date on which the student became medically unable to participate in school.
- the anticipated duration of the medical condition (when the student will be able to return to his/her regular course of study).
- If approved, the Director of Counseling Services determines the effective date based on the documentation provided by the healthcare provider, as well as the last date of class attendance.

Once a medical withdrawal/leave is approved by the Director of Counseling Services, the student must complete and sign the LIM College Withdrawal Form. This form can be obtained from the Office of the Registrar. The completed form must be submitted directly to the Registrar. A medical withdrawal is not effective until the form is submitted and processed by the Registrar.

Students taking a medical withdrawal/leave will be re-enrolled, upon their return, into the College at their last general academic standing, provided the leave lasts no more than five years. Any withdrawal/leave lasting longer than five years will require students to reapply and gain readmission to the College. Additionally, while a student is on medical leave, they are not permitted to take classes at other institutions, in hopes of transferring credit(s) back to LIM College, without prior approval from the Director of Counseling Services and the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs."

Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA): B-

Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA) is a private institution in Baltimore, MD with an enrollment of 2128 students and was most recently graded in March 2020.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

Alcohol Policy
Maryland Institute College of Art is committed to enforcing College policies that prohibit persons under the age of 21 from possessing, serving, or consuming alcohol. In addition, MICA discourages those 21 years and over from abusing alcohol. The unauthorized possession or use of alcoholic beverages on College-owned or -controlled property, including student residences, is expressly forbidden. As adults, students bear ultimate personal responsibility for knowing and adhering to state and federal law.

Students living in campus housing who are 21 years or older may drink alcohol in the privacy of their apartments; however, they may not buy or serve alcohol to students or others under the legal drinking age. If an apartment is shared by those both under and over 21, it must be clear to any College official that alcohol is being consumed only by those 21 years of age and older. If an apartment is occupied only by those under 21, then alcohol is not permitted under any circumstance.

Open containers of alcohol are not permitted in any of the public or common spaces on campus, including courtyards, stairwells, or parking lots. Multi-quart containers such as kegs are not allowed in any campus-owned or -controlled space.
Students who violate this policy will be subject to the following sanctions, among others, depending upon College officials' assessment of the severity of the violation(s):
Alcohol education
Assessment for alcohol abuse problem
Required alcohol abuse treatment program
Housing probation (if student resides in College housing)
Dismissal from College housing (if student resides in College housing)
Suspension from the College
Dismissal from the College
Referral to law enforcement agencies

Also, if alcohol is found in the possession of underage students, staff will require that the alcohol be disposed of in the presence of the staff member. Students who are in the presence of alcohol, under certain circumstances, may also be determined to be in violation of the alcohol policy.

Drug Policy
The use, possession, or sale (or possession with intent to sell) of illegal or illicit drugs or narcotics is expressly prohibited by federal state, and local laws and regulations, as well as College policy. Possession or use of illicit drugs by students are grounds for severe sanctions, including expulsion, and may result in referral to authorities for prosecution. The possession of drug paraphernalia (including hookahs, bongs, needles not for prescribed use, and other such items) is also a violation of both state law and College policy.

Cannabidiol (CBD) oils and other derivatives are prohibited for student use regardless of intended use or origin, i.e. hemp vs. marijuana.
Students who violate this policy will be subject to any of the following sanctions, among others, depending upon College officials' assessment of the severity of the violations:

Good Samaritan policy (25 of 40 points)
"The University recognizes that there may be health or safety emergencies related to the use of alcohol or other substances in which the potential for disciplinary action by the University may serve as a deterrent to students who want to seek assistance for themselves or to "Good Samaritans" who want to get help for another member of the NYU community. In all such matters, the health and safety of the student at risk will be the University's top priority. Accordingly, should a student him/herself, or another individual on behalf of that student, voluntarily come forward seeking assistance in a situation involving the over-consumption or abuse of drugs and alcohol, the University's student conduct response in regard to that overconsumption will be first and foremost focused on medical treatment, counseling and/or educational interventions. However, the University reserves the right to address any associated acts that compromise the well-being of the community and its members such as harassment, violence, damage, harm to self/others, or distribution of illegal substances on a case by case basis as deemed appropriate/necessary."

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

"Pace University has a strong commitment to a healthy and safe environment for all members of the University community. Any use of alcohol and drugs that is illegal or violates this Policy will not be tolerated. It is the policy of the University that the unlawful use, possession, sale, distribution, or manufacture of controlled substances and alcohol on University property or at University sponsored programs and activities are prohibited. Even though its possession or consumption may otherwise be lawful, alcohol, except in limited circumstances, is not permitted on University property or at University sponsored programs and activities.

There are two exceptions to the prohibition against the possession and consumption of alcohol on University property and at University sponsored programs and activities. One exception to this Policy is for the moderate possession and consumption of alcohol at University sponsored programs and activities by individuals legally permitted to possess and consume alcohol, provided prior written approval from the appropriate University representative has been granted. The second exception permits students, except for those who reside in Maria's Tower, who are at least 21 years of age to possess and consume a moderate amount of beer or wine (not hard liquor) in their residential housing room.

This Policy applies to each member of the University community -- students, faculty, and staff – as well as to contractors, vendors, licensees, invitees and visitors. This Policy is in compliance with the Drug- Free Workplace Act and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act, and it is distributed to every student and faculty and staff member."

" A student-athlete who tests positive for an NCAA banned drug will be declared ineligible (unless a medical exception is granted);" We do not have Greek Life.”

Rocky Mountain College: D

Rocky Mountain College is a private institution in Billings, MT with an enrollment of 1,035 and was most recently graded in September 2016.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

"Rocky Mountain College recognizes the problems of alcohol and drug abuse as they occur on a societal scale today. The abuse of alcohol, particularly on college campuses, is epidemic.

Rocky Mountain College neither encourages nor condemns the use of alcoholic beverages. Rather, the College acknowledges the right of individuals of legal drinking age either to abstain or to use alcohol responsibly.

Rocky Mountain College believes the key to successful control of alcohol and drug use lies in education, providing healthy alternatives, and supporting and promoting healthy lifestyles. To this end, the College is committed to:

-Providing students and employees with the most current information available regarding alcohol and drug use;
-Developing and implementing substance-free social programming; and
-Encouraging and supporting those students and employees who choose to abstain from the use of alcohol.

It is the responsibility of Rocky Mountain College to provide a drug-free environment that promotes healthy alternatives, supports the standards set forth in this document, and allows for individual choice either to abstain from or to use alcohol responsibly. "

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (25 of 40 points)

"The College encourages students to attend to their personal health and well-being and to behave in an equally caring way with their peers. We encourage our students to use alcohol responsibly at all times; however, we recognize there may be times when students face medical emergencies involving excessive drinking and/or drug use. In those instances, we do not want college policy to prevent students and/or “Good Samaritans” to avoid seeking assistance. As such, RMC has adopted the following Medical Amnesty policy:

If an individual seeks medical attention due to a medical emergency, the College will not pursue disciplinary sanctions against the student for consumption of alcohol or drugs.

Medical Amnesty applies only to the consumption of alcohol and drugs; it does not preclude disciplinary sanctions due to any other violation of Rocky Mountain College policies, Student Code of Conduct, state and/or federal law. Additionally, the policy does not prevent action by police, other law enforcement personnel, or other third parties including the Rocky Mountain College Athletic Department or the Aviation program."

Miscellaneous
San Diego City College is a community college that does not offer student housing or dormitories, so some questions were not applicable.

The campus safety officials (police) do not carry Naloxone directly on them but have access to it when needed from the Student Health Center.

For drug education, there is an "Alcohol and Other Drug Studies" program that is offered on campus which is why I included my school as having a drug education program that is evidenced-based and made readily available to students and also peer-led education. However, the DAAPP and other resources on campus emphasize an abstinence based approach to drug use. There are no direct resources on campus for community based programs, but the Student Health Center offers referrals and mental health counseling.

In regard to Student Government's ability to make direct policy change, there is a clause that states, "Students shall have the right to participate in the formation of policy affecting them in accordance with established procedures for Shared Governance." The Associated Student Government President at Miramar College, a college in the San Diego Community College District which San Diego City College is included in, said in response to my inquiry, "To answer your question simply: yes, student government does have the capability to influence, even change, college policies. The only caveat is that a student government cannot create policy that conflicts with either college or district policy, state education code, or local, state, or federal law. However, any of these can be changed through proposed policy changes or legislation, which a student government can pursue through various means."

"With few exceptions, it is illegal for anyone under the age of 21 to purchase or possess alcohol. If you violate these laws you may face a fine of $250 and suspension of your driving license. For more informa- tion about California laws visit the California State Bar website or the California Alcohol Beverage Control website .

Federal and State laws define a number of substances as “drugs” with santions related to their manufacture, sale, possession, and use varying by type of substance and quantity. See California State Bar website.

In addition to the Standards for Student Conduct in the California Code of Regulations, Title V, Article 2, Section 41301, SDSU’s expectations of responsible student behavior prohibits the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of drugs and alcohol by students on university property or in surrounding neighborhoods, or as any part of the university’s activities. Violators may face suspension or expulsion from the university. In addition, the university will cooperate with governmental authorities in criminal and civil actions. The university does not accept alcohol or substance abuse as an excuse, reason, or rationale for any act of abuse, harassment, intimidation, violence, or vandalism...

Possession or consumption of distilled liquor on university property is prohibited at all times. Possession, consumption, or sale of beer or wine by those 21 years of age or older is permitted at designated campus locations and events only with prior approval of the vice president for student affairs...

On campus property, and in surrounding neighborhoods, the sale, distribution, knowing possession, and use of dangerous drugs or narcot- ics are prohibited. You are also forbidden by State and Federal laws to sell, distribute, possess, or use those drugs. SDSU does not permit the possession or use of marijuana even with a medical recommendation...

Students who possess, use, or distribute substances such as, but not limited to, marijuana, cocaine, methamphetamines, or other hallu- cinogens and narcotics, or who violate statutes regarding alcoholic beverages, are subject to arrest, imprisonment, or a fine according to State law. The University Police Department is empowered to enforce all State and Federal laws, including public drunkenness, driving under the influence, and possession of alcohol by a minor.

The university’s commitment to exercising disciplinary powers in cases of illegal alcohol and drug use complements its full measure of support for students who seek help for themselves or their acquain- tances. These two approaches, combined with an active prevention education program, provide a strong basis for maintaining university expectations for a safe, healthy, and productive campus community. We hope that you will take advantage of the programs and services available to you, and that you will join with us in creating a viable learning community."

If the persons acting as Good Samaritans by placing such a call are found to be in violation of a University policy, the fact that they placed the call will be considered a mitigating circumstance in determining potential sanctions. Failing to call for emergency or medical assistance (including when alcohol or other drugs are involved) will be considered an aggravating circumstance and result in more serious sanctions. SSU total enrollment is approximately 8,887 students. 7,416 are undergraduates and 368 are graduate students.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

For undergraduates if you are found in possession of alcohol or consuming it and are 21 is a violation of university policy. "Parents of students under the age of 21 may be notified of alcohol-related disciplinary violations when a student's health or safety" is at risk. "When persons under 21 years of age can reasonably be expected to be present at an event, proper precautions must be taken to restrict distribution and consumption of alcohol to persons of legal drinking age.

Student organizations shall also adhere to the specific guidelines for events outlined in The Duke Community Standard in Practice: A Guide for Undergraduates (for student organizations that cater primarily to undergraduates) or the Graduate and Professional Student Alcohol Policy (for student organizations that cater primarily to graduate/professional students)."

Good Samaritan policy (27.5 of 40 points)

Because health and safety of students are of primary importance, students are encouraged not only to look out for their own health and safety but also for that of their peers. When a person's health and/or safety is/are threatened or appear(s) to be in jeopardy, immediate action should be taken to prevent injury/illness/danger. Dial 911 (or 919-684-2444 if you are on campus) for help. Whatever the particular need/problem, it is important to respond in a responsible and timely manner.

Formal disciplinary action for a violation of the alcohol policy will not be taken against students for whom medical assistance is sought, or against those who seek medical assistance for themselves or for others, provided that the student/group has not violated university policies that warrant formal disciplinary action.

A student who receives medical assistance may be required to meet with a substance abuse specialist in DuWell for education, assessment, and possible referral for treatment. The student may also be required to complete an educational assignment. Parents of such students under the legal drinking age may also be notified. A group that facilitates the acquisition of alcohol may also be required to notify its advisor, provide an educational program for members, and/or change its processes for hosting events.

In the event that a student fails to meet with the specialist, chooses not to participate in the outlined expectations, or exhibits a pattern of abusive behavior with alcohol, the student may be subject to formal disciplinary action.

A panel of the Undergraduate Conduct Board will be informed of a student who has received "amnesty" under this provision of the Alcohol Policy should the student be subsequently found responsible for a violation of policy related to substance use for purposes of effective sanctioning.

Southern New Hampshire University (SNHU) is a private institution in Manchester, New Hampshire with an enrollment of 3,147 and was most recently graded in October 2016.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

"Due to the importance of addressing drug and alcohol use, the University developed a specific set of responses for these types of violations. A student found responsible for violating an alcohol or other drug policy will be held accountable for his/her own actions and for allowing or encouraging violations by his/her guests. The University provides a two-part response for students in violation of the alcohol or other drug policy: A conduct outcome and an educational response.

The alcohol or other drug policy chart outlines recommended sanctions, however specific circumstances may require alternate or more severe responses. Both the hearing officer and the Wellness Center reserve the right to create and/or tailor an appropriate response that accounts for prior conduct history and evaluations completed by the Wellness Center."

Good Samaritan policy (20 of 40 points)

• Victims of misconduct who were engaging in policy violations, such as underage drinking or drug use, at the time of the incident.
• Students who offer assistance to others by calling medical personnel or law enforcement.
• Students who bring their own use, addiction, or dependency to alcohol, drugs, or other addictions to the attention of the University prior to any conduct incidents or reports.

University of Alabama: C-

The University of Alabama is a public institution in Tuscaloosa, AL with an enrollment of 38,320, and was most recently graded in April 2022.

Summary of alcohol and other drug policies

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (17.5 of 40 points)

"The Medical Emergency Assistance Policy (MEAP) may apply when a student seeks and obtains emergency medical assistance that is (a) related to use, consumption, or possession of alcohol and/or illicit drugs, (b) does not involve first contacting friends for assistance, and (c) is not first discovered by a University of Alabama employee or public safety official (i.e., UAPD, TPD, faculty, administrative staff, residence hall staff, etc.). Any UA student who seeks and obtains medical assistance on their own behalf may use the Medical Emergency Assistance Policy only once during their matriculation as a student. The availability of the application of this policy for a second incident is at the discretion of the Dean of Students or their designee.

A student seeking or obtaining medical emergency assistance on their own behalf in compliance with this policy will only be eligible for an exemption under this policy when violations of the Code of Student Conduct are related to the use, consumption, or possession of alcohol and/or illicit drugs. However, The University of Alabama reserves the right to refer other types of violations of the Code of Student Conduct, including, but not limited to, disorderly conduct, improper identification (Fake ID), damage to property, distribution of alcohol, distribution of illicit drugs, harassment, hazing, assault, sexual violence, and causing or threatening physical harm, to the Office of Student Conduct.

If the student seeking or obtaining medical assistance has been determined to be eligible for an exemption under this policy by a representative from the Dean of Students, the student will be required to meet with the Dean of Students or their designee to develop a student success plan/agreement outlining appropriate behavioral and education components that maximize the student's personal and academic success. The specific plan/agreement may include, but is not limited to, behavioral and education elements such as: a Student Success Agreement, enrollment in the MPACT program, Counseling, Assessment, Educational Programming (i.e., AlcoholEDU for Sanctions, Alcohol Education Workshop, and Community Involvement) and a parental notification letter for students under the age of 21.

Upon the successful completion of a designated program, the Dean of Students or their designee grants the student a medical emergency assistance exemption. Should the student fail to comply with or successfully complete the University designated program/agreement set forth by the Dean of Students or their designee, then the student may be referred to the Office of Student Conduct for further action.

Students who (a) seek medical emergency assistance on behalf of another student experiencing a medical emergency related to use, consumption, or possession of alcohol and/or illicit drugs and (b) do no participate in providing or distributing the alcohol and/or illicit drugs that triggered the medical emergency may not be referred to the Office of Student Conduct for violations of the Code of Student Conduct relating to use, consumption, or possession of alcohol and/or illicit drugs. However, any UA students who seek and obtain emergency medical assistance on the behalf of another student are eligible to benefit from this policy more than once.

A student seeking or obtaining medical emergency assistance on behalf of another student in compliance with this policy will only be eligible for an exemption when violations of the Code of Student Conduct during the incident in question are related to the use, consumption, or possession of alcohol and/or illicit drugs. However, the University of Alabama reserves the right to refer other types of violations of the Code of Student Conduct, including, but not limited to, disorderly conduct, improper identification (Fake ID), damage to property, distribution of alcohol, distribution of illicit drugs, harassment, hazing, assault, sexual violence, and causing or threatening physical harm, to the Office of Student Conduct.

If the student seeking or obtaining medical assistance on behalf of another student has been determined to be eligible for an exemption under this policy by a representative from the Dean of Students or their designee, the student may be required to meet with the Dean of Students or their designee to develop a student success plan/agreement depending upon their involvement in the incident."

"Illegal use, possession, manufacturing or distribution (or participation in the sale of) of marijuana, heroin, narcotics, or other controlled substances and/or any use or possession of general products as intoxicants or “means to get high” is strictly prohibited. Additionally, driving while impaired by such drugs, improper use, possession or distribution of prescription drugs, and paraphernalia commonly used to consume drugs is not permitted. Paraphernalia includes but is not limited to pipes, bongs, hookahs, and homemade smoking devices.

Note: The University no longer provides students with the opportunity to take a drug test when accused of drug use. However, any person can request a drug test prescription from a medical doctor for submission as evidence. One should consider the time lapse between the incident and the test when submitting medical records."

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (22.5 of 40 points)

"The University encourages students to seek medical attention for themselves and others when needed and recognizes that the potential for disciplinary action may be a barrier to seeking medical assistance for issues involving the use of alcohol or drugs. It is for this reason that CS&C offers medical amnesty through participation in a diversion program (known as the Blueprint Program.)

Students who gain access to medical attention due to peer intervention will qualify for medical amnesty. Additionally, the caller will not be documented for simple alcohol/drug violations that become known to authorities as a result of the call for assistance. In cases where the student calls for themselves, they will be documented and remain qualified for the amnesty program. Provided the student requiring medical attention agrees to participate in the Blueprint Program, medical amnesty will shield the incident from disciplinary action. Additionally, in these circumstances, students who are on, or have been on, university disciplinary probation for alcohol- or drug-related issues will be protected from the consequences of suspension or expulsion within reason.

It should be noted that a history of alcohol- or drug-related medical transports remains of concern to the University. Any student who becomes a danger to themselves with regard to the use and abuse of these substances may require ongoing medical attention and could disqualify themselves from amnesty for habitual medical transport. Lastly, medical amnesty was created with the safety and security of the student community in mind. Any case where the drug in use or the behaviors surrounding the incident cause heightened safety concerns may be referred by the Director of CS&C to the Dean of Student’s Office in addition to the processes indicated in student standards of behavior and code of conduct."

School policy grade details

Good Samaritan policy (25 of 40 points)

"The health and safety of every student in the Utah State University community is a primary concern. To ensure the safety and well-being of all USU students, students must seek immediate medical attention and law enforcement assistance for themselves or others when someone's health and/or safety is at risk. Students may be reluctant to seek assistance for themselves or someone else for fear of facing disciplinary action from the Office of Student Conduct for violations of the USU Student Code. By granting amnesty for alcohol and drug-related student code violations, the University seeks to remove barriers that prevent students from seeking needed medical attention for themselves or others.

Under this policy, if an individual, including a bystander, seeks medical attention or reports an incident of sexual misconduct, in good faith, the reporting party will not be subject to disciplinary action for a separate University policy violation, such as underage drinking, that is revealed in the course of the report."

Good Samaritan policy (35 of 40 points)

Summary of the Medical Amnesty policy, copied directly from the West Chester University Code of Conduct:
Medical Amnesty:
West Chester University's priority is for the safety and well-being of WCU students. The WCU Medical Amnesty policy has been instituted to encourage students and bystanders to seek emergency medical assistance in situations that are possibly life-threatening due to alcohol or drug use, without fear of conduct violations for alcohol and drug use. In order for the bystander and student needing assistance to receive medical amnesty from the University, the bystander seeking assistance must:
a. Call 911, Public Safety, Police, Emergency Services, or otherwise contact an other Authorized University Representative based on a reasonable belief that someone, including themselves, is in need of immediate medical assistance;
b. Reasonably believe that they were the first person to make the 911 call or a call to Public Safety, Police, Emergency Services, or otherwise contact an other Authorized University Representative and reported that a person needed immediate medical assistance;
c. Provide their own name to the 911 operator, Public Safety, Police Emergency Officer, University Staff or other Authorized University Representative;
d. Remain with the person needing medical assistance until emergency health care providers have arrived and taken care of the person in need of medical assistance; and
e. Comply with post event educational/counseling objectives issued by the Office of Wellness Promotion and/or the Office of Student Conduct.
Students should keep in mind that medical amnesty is not intended to shield or pro- tect students from other violations of the Student Code of Conduct related to the incident, or protect students who repeatedly violate the Student Code of Conduct. Additionally, the University strongly encourages students to report incidents of sexual misconduct. A witness to or individual who experiences sexual misconduct, acting in good faith, who discloses any incident of sexual misconduct to University officials or law enforcement will not be sanctioned under the University's Code of Conduct for violations of alcohol and/or drug use policies occurring at or near the time of incident(s) of sexual misconduct.
