Visa Application Process

Getting your visa sorted is an important first step to studying MBBS in Sweden. Here's a simplified guide to help you navigate the process.

1. Research and Apply:

- Research universities and MBBS programs in Sweden that fit your interests.
- Apply to your chosen universities, ensuring you meet their admission requirements. This might include past academic records (like high school diplomas or bachelor's degrees) and English language tests (like IELTS with a minimum score of 6.5).

2. Secure Your Acceptance Letter

Once a university accepts you, it will send you an official acceptance letter. Keep this document safe – it's essential for your visa application.

3. Gather Your Visa Documents

Here's a checklist of what you'll typically need:

- Completed Swedish student visa application form (signed)
- Valid passport (valid for at least three months beyond your stay and with blank pages for visa stamps).
- Acceptance letter from your Swedish university
- Proof of sufficient funds to cover your living expenses in Sweden [Minimum 75K (SEK 9.5K) Every Month].
- Valid health insurance for your entire stay in Sweden [Minimum 27L (€30K) cover].
- One recent passport-size photo
- Proof of accommodation in Sweden (rental agreement or booking confirmation).

4. Submit Your Application

- Visit the Swedish consulate or embassy in your home country.
- Book an appointment and submit your complete application with all documents. You'll also need to pay the visa fee [INR 11K (SEK 1.5K)] and residence permit fee [INR 18K (SEK 2.3K)]. Be prepared for potential fingerprint scans and an interview about your studies and plans in Sweden.

5. Wait for the Decision

Processing times can vary, so check with the consulate for specifics (usually around four weeks).

Important Tip: Staying organised and meeting deadlines is key! Don't hesitate to contact the Swedish Migration Agency or the consulate/embassy if you have any questions throughout the process.

How to Practise Medicine in India After MBBS in Sweden?

Sweden's reputation for educational excellence is well-deserved, consistently ranking among the top ten in the world; the country has the ninth-best education system in the world. This makes it a smart choice to study MBBS in Sweden. But what if you plan to return to India and practice medicine there after graduation?

Here's what you need to know.

- Equivalency of Courses: The National Medical Commission (NMC), formerly MCI, doesn't provide an official list of approved universities. However, the commission advises students to ensure the MBBS in Sweden covers the same syllabus as the MBBS curriculum in India.

- Course Accreditation: Rest assured that universities in Sweden are accredited domestically. This ensures top-quality course curriculums and internationally recognised degrees.

To be on the safe side, directly contact the NMC for the latest guidelines on the equivalency of medical qualifications obtained abroad.

While an MBBS degree from Sweden allows you to pursue a medical career in India, there's an additional step involved. To practise medicine in India, you'll need to clear the Foreign Medical Graduates Examination (FMGE).

Here's a quick breakdown of the FMGE.

- Conducted by: National Board of Examinations (NBE) in India
- Purpose: Assesses the knowledge and skills of medical graduates from abroad.
- Frequency: Twice a year (June and December)
- Structure: Two parts - a written test and a practical/clinical examination.
- Passing Requirement: Secure the minimum qualifying marks of at least 50% set by the NBE.

Remember, passing the FMGE is crucial to obtain registration with the State Medical Council, a mandatory step for practising medicine in India.

Stay updated on the latest FMGE guidelines and prepare diligently to ensure a smooth transition to your medical career in India.
