Dear [Mention the name of the recipient]

I'm sincerely thrilled to be submitting an application for the [Mention the job position] post at [Mention the name of the company]. You'll discover in me a determined executive who is committed to achievement. In whatever I do, I hold myself to the highest standards. I can now demand the same from my team as a result.

I think I have enough self-assurance and belief in myself to make a great [Mention the name] for your company. These are two very important qualities in a leader. Naturally, I also have a strong and constant sense of personal responsibility that includes the consumers and employees of any company that has been entrusted to me in addition to the stockholders of that company.

I made the decision to start my own business once I received my [Mention the degree]. I've launched a number of my own businesses and sold them for a large profit. An opportunity to lead one of the biggest medical corporations west of the [Mention the name] resulted from this.

It had been in the red for the previous [Mention the number] years running when I took over. We made a [Mention the percentage] profit in the first year of my leadership, and that profit rose by at least [Mention the percentage] every year until I left three years later.

I've learned from experience that a [Mention the name] should be much more than just the boss. A group of dedicated, skilled people who are motivated by their leadership and fulfilled by their work makes up every successful organization. If given the privilege of managing [Mention the name of the company], I would work as hard for you as you would work for me, and I would do all in my power to maintain that respect throughout my tenure as [Mention the job position].

Sincerely,
