Personality

- Thicket is a sneaky, silly cat. They love to play and socialize, and often does Thicket say way too much when they talk to others, a very talkative cat. Highly social but also very obnoxious, their laugh is as loud as their ego. Not known for their smarts, Thicket often charges straight into trouble without a second thought. Also super-duper sassy, Thicket will not hesitate to put a cat into place with words that sting.

History

Early life

- Thicket was born to her mom and dad with a sibling. She was a loved kitten, being taught the ways of being a cat from her parents.
- One day, it was decided that they would become wanderers, straying away from the barn they once lived in. They traveled around, never having a true home for ages. It was a fun life, surprisingly, and Thicket would always enjoy a variety of prey.
- Thicket started going by solely They/Them, being supported by their sibling, who did as well, and parents.
- Months of traveling passed, and Thicket's sibling Bush decided to go out on their own. Thicket followed suit, saying a sorrowful goodbye to their parents before setting off.

Finding Builder Colony

- It wasn't a long journey. Thicket had heard of the colonies and had headed out to find one, eventually stumbling upon Builder Colony. The new colony was in need of new cats, so they decided to join up. They hate being a Villager after hearing of other positions, and wish to switch in the future.
