

SHARK MENTALITY AU^{DOC}

~Setting~

The time period is present, or well, as how far technology could get on the universe, the setting is undersea where the marine creatures would evolve, some being able to look as human as possible, but of course they still have features that show they aren't human. the world between the sea creatures and humans was separated only by ocean, some sea creature once asked themselves what would happened if they would just see what's else of the sea, later would become part of the human civilization, this creatures could live among humans and relate to them, once upon a time there would exist a child, born from human and fishman, at that time it was frowned upon, because fishman have never been in such good light because of how humans portrayed them. Of course there would later on appear more and more creatures born from the pairing of humans and fishmen, but these creatures would never be accepted. This would be so frowned upon that the already existing mobster families would start selling them, because even if the fishmen had human parts they still had marine features that were valuable.

~Info~

The matsus are Mobsters in this alternative universe, they are all different types of sharks this does mean they aren't brothers but do act as family, this is because when they were born they were taken in by their adoptive parents, all of them, this making them act as family, they would later find out that their parent adopted them to have someone to take the spot of being the boss of the mafia which they didn't even know about but they would have to accept it, when they became old enough it would mean that they would start to train on their fighting skills.

When they became adults, Osomatsu would take the spot as the boss of the mafia, not doing a good job obviously but he'd try his Best on it, the matsus at this time would be very feared since their family was made purely by different shark species, or how other marine creatures thought that they looked down on them but those are just speculations, those speculations coming from them having other mobster members that aren't shark's and don't have a main job like the matsus.

~Matsus on the AU~

When the matsus were younger, they didn't have a way to say who was older, so they just decided to choose, with who was the strongest at that time, it would end up in Osomatsu, Karamatsu, Choromatsu, Ichimatsu, Jyushimatsu and Todomatsu but if they tried it again the rankings would be totally different

Osomatsu

(The Leopard Shark)

the boss/ringmaster

He's the head of the family, this being decided by their parents when they were children, since they thought Osomatsu could be responsible enough to once they passed he could easily take the job, he is pretty lazy about the job the other matsus usually just find him on the casino gambling, getting drunk, or trying to get girls to be with him.

His role aside from boss, could be said that he is also the Ringmaster(they are separated by ringmaster/brawler/thinkers) this means he gets to choose whatever they do, of course he would already have this job since he is the boss but it just adds up to it.

Karamatsu

(The Great White Shark)

Brawler

He tries acting like if he was the boss, he is not bossy but just enjoys the idea of the other brothers following what he says for once, he's a brawler because of how strong and violent he seems to be, of course he doesn't mean to be violent it's just formal for him

In the AU he is very loud and sometimes has a very silly way of talking. He seems to be dense even if he isn't, he is pretty good at gambling so usually Osomatsu makes him play for him to get money

He also has a lot of cuts in his tail, the most noticeable being a huge scar that goes around it, this is because once he would get kidnapped and tortured to get information of some sort out of him, he wouldn't give anything so this would make the people that kidnapped him torture him, and also try to cut his tail off since that is a signal of importance on this universe.

Choromatsu

(The Whale Shark)

Thinker

People seem to think of Choromatsu as a secretary for his appearance, since he is pretty smart about everything, he has knowledge of stuff that most of the brothers don't this making them call him nosy about everything

Because of how “nosy” he is, he would get the job to plan stuff ahead, if Osomatsu wants to do something he would plan with Ichimatsu everything ahead so everything would go according to plan.

Ichimatsu

(The Tiger Shark)

Thinker

He's the second in charge of planning how things will go for them, even if for him he takes the job a bit too far, usually pulling all-nighters to have everything planned out in difference to Choromatsu who takes his time on planning things out

A special thing to his look is his ears, since the upper part of them there's a chunk completely missing, this because of him once getting into a fight and this led to the other and boom no more upper parts of the ears for him

Jyushimatsu (The Basking Shark)

Brawler

The second most important part of the family since he is a brawler besides Karamatsu they both need to fight, most of the time they are the ones who have to follow, first of all the ideas that Osomatsu and Todomatsu decide then follow the plans that Choromatsu and Ichimatsu form for them

In the AU he doesn't have teeth like a real Basking Shark, this maybe just because he was born toothless or maybe he got into an accident which would later on turn him toothless, but he can communicate with actions most of the time, he is very clever so he doesn't need communicative at all, as an ironic decoration he owns real Shark teeth earrings which he always uses

Todomatsu (The Shortfin Mako Shark)

ringmaster

Probably the one with the most important knowledge on the family, he's usually updated on everything before time, knowing exactly when to do things, or when can they do something that will get them easy money, like knowing what things would sell for pretty good bucks on the dark market

This reasons would make Osomatsu choose him as a ringmaster since his abilities could be well used for such a big job.

~OTHER INFO~

The dark market

A place where you can get easy money, if You have the stomach to not be bothered to get the list of things that could give You big bucks. Usually these things are for predators and predators only because the best things that are sold are supposed to be human Trafficking or well fishermen trafficking, since it is seen that the sea creatures that are predators have a special liking to eating fishermen as an exchange to eat humans. But they also eat smaller sea creatures like fishes obviously.

The objects that are seen as very worthy on the dark market

Fish eggs:

any kind most of the time, for the predators it is a delight to eat.

fish in general:

harder to find but they can get to eat more meat if they get to have some to buy.

Shark tails:

even more more expensive, sharks are very respected so the fact of them losing their tails is usually them losing any sort of respect they ever had, usually the tails come with the name of the sharks wroten down, so if the tail is from a mobster, in the eyes of the sellers on the dark market those tails are just more delicious than the average.

The jaws of sharks/or any other predators:

these are seen as to show respect for one, they are very worthy because usually these jaws just belong to mobsters so if someone owns one this means they have killed a mobster.

Ram's note:

This has been all the ranting for now of my thought process while thinking of the Shark mentality AU it's been fun while ive been working on it, i've sort of learned a lot and this is not even half of all my ideas but the rest aren't as thought out as this, so i'll leave it like this for now,

I hope it was understandable.

!Thank you for reading!