Blurb

Acacia Sheridan is a private detective with a special gift for communicating with the supernatural. When patrons of a local homeless shelter start turning up dead, with suspicious-looking bite marks on their necks, a local vampire is an obvious suspect. But as Acacia digs deeper into the case she starts to wonder...could even more sinister forces be at work?

Olympia Investigations

Acacia Sheridan, private detective for all sorts of supernatural beings, investigates with the help of her keen observational skills, wry wit, and sometimes annoying cousin Oliver.

About the Author

Sherry D. Ramsey is a speculative fiction writer, editor, publisher, creativity addict and self-confessed internet geek. When she's not writing, she makes jewelry, gardens, hones her creative procrastination skills on social media, and consumes far more chocolate and coffee than is likely good for her. She publishes with Tyche Books, Dreaming Robot Press, and on her own. Every November, she vanishes into the strange realm of National Novel Writing Month and emerges gasping at the end, clutching something resembling a novel.

Sherry is a member of the Writer's Federation of Nova Scotia and SF Canada. Visit Sherry's blog and website at www.sherrydramsey.com, or keep up with her much more pithy musings on Twitter @sdramsey.
