

It's not NFTs that confuse you, it's art

There's no need to be angry about NFTs if you aren't angry about JPEGs in general

- Art sometimes angers people
- Eg: People debating about what art is

People worried about the commercialization of art

- Art has always been commercialized
- Pandering to rich assholes doesn't disqualify art, just does more of what art has always been doing
- Art has always been experimental and weird, eg: Maurizio Cattelan's Comedian
 - 3 sold for $150k each, 2 sold for $120k each

Can't be real art because it doesn't really exist

- NFTs aren't the first art medium that isn't physical
- Art doesn't need to be an object. It can be an idea, message, or a movement

NFTs help accomplish 3 things

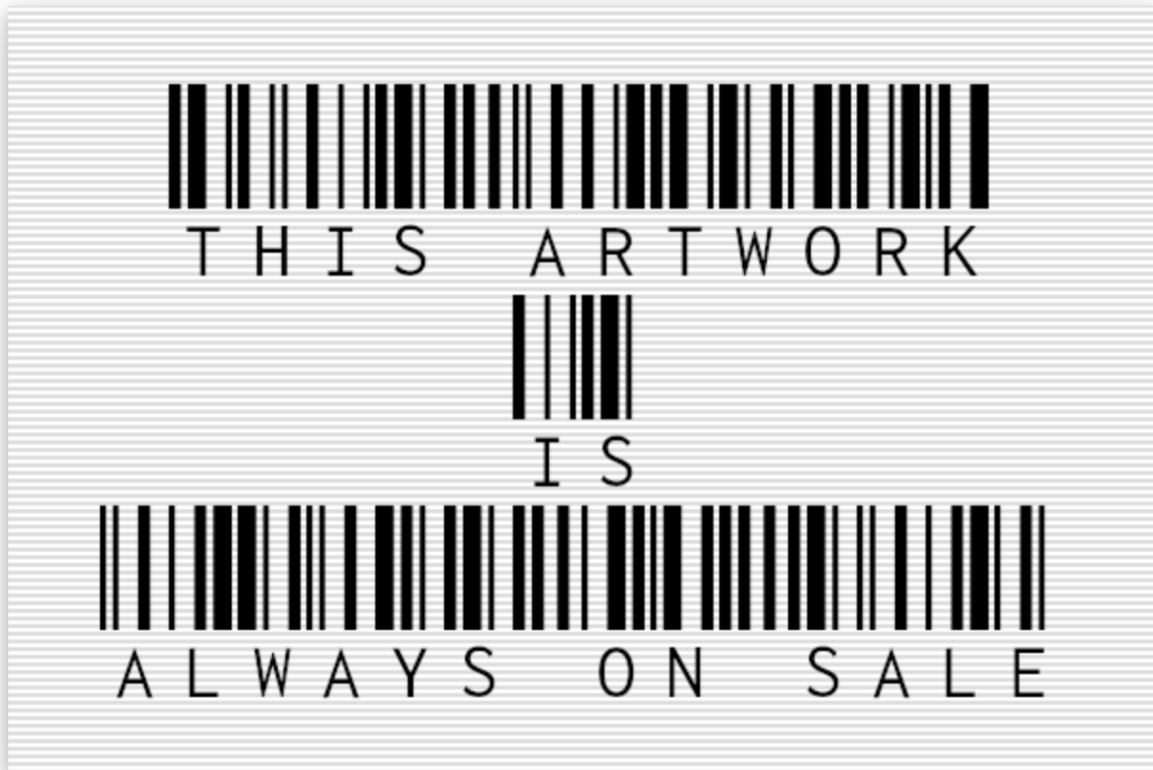

- Ownership
- Authenticity
- Artist Intention

Pizza, a Pie Popular in Southern Italy, Is Offered Here for Home Consumption

By JANE HOLT

One of the most popular dishes in southern Italy, especially in the vicinity of Naples, is pizza—a pie made from a yeast dough and filled with any number of different centers, each one containing tomatoes, Cheese, mushrooms, anchovies, capers, onions and so on may be used. At 147 West Forty-eighth Street, a restaurant called

"white" (that is, green) muscat, and the fruit, always of good flavor, was known to attain four and a half inches in circumference, and the clusters as much as thirty pounds apiece.

Although such grapes are no longer obtainable, muscats modeled on the foreign pattern are to be found at Martin's, 1042 Madison Avenue, near Seventy-ninth
