Tell about one battle of the American Revolution in detail.

Monmouth was a really tough battle. The British retreated after one day. A very long day. The colonists attacked the British while they were asleep too. They left in the middle of the night.

the battle of Yorktown was the last battle of the revolutiony war the americans won the British had a lot of ships so they could escape buy water but and then the French bombed there ships so when they needed to escape they could not so they lost

The battle of Trenton was when George Washington's troops rode across the Delaware to surprise the Hessians. Luckily we succeeded. And when the Hessians stopped using their artillery we stole theirs. And we won the battle in less than two hours.

The Battle of Lexington and concord.
