

Déjà Vu Esoterica Contracted Readers & Instructors Ethics & Conduct Agreement

I, _____, verify that as a professional spiritual practitioner, I proudly honor the code of ethical principles as set forth and outlined below on behalf of all clients, personnel, and professionals I work and operate with. I make a deep commitment to upholding the highest ethical and moral standards. I endeavor to provide answers and education with clarity and utility, engage my clients in a relationship of trust and confidentiality, and interact with my community in honest and beneficial ways. Further, to clarify my intent I have as a divinatory consultant and/or educator: I work for the client's benefit first, not my own.

I believe in the inherent value of each person and commit myself to upholding equality.

I will dedicate myself to providing compassionate and competent services.

I will always represent Deja Vu to the public with a high standard of professionalism in both dress and speech.

I will respect the confidentiality and privacy of the client, and will only release information with their explicit permission.

I will respect the faith or the lack thereof of the client.

I will refrain from being judgmental towards the client.

I will do everything to the best of my ability to educate my students or querents factually and honestly.

I will inform the client of anything I can see and state from the reading, honestly and without malice.

I will offer my services with the highest good of the client in mind and I will refrain from imparting harmful information.

I will inform the client of the manner of my technique or my qualifications upon request.

I will answer questions the client has to the best of my ability and understanding upon request.

I will provide further resources to aid the client when I can no longer provide adequate or proper advice.

I will refrain from practicing any kind of cleansing, energy, or spell work at Deja Vu by request of client or otherwise.

I reserve the right to refuse to answer any objectionable queries. Such queries include, but are not limited to, those about death or violence, those violating the privacy of a third party, and those for the purpose of unethical gain.

I reserve the right to refuse performing any reading for the client if the client acts in a dishonest or insincere way.

As an ethical practitioner, I do not take financial or social advantage of clients with perceived psychological, medical, or legal problems.

I will not pressure any clients for additional services, apprenticeships, or other scammy behaviors.

If a client's requirements are outside my scope of spiritual practice/area of specialization, I will notify them of such.

I will continue to study, apply, and advance my knowledge and understanding to provide the best services possible.

As a professional consultant, I do not work on the behalf of any organized religion, spiritual tradition or philosophical school, and all such views I express are mine alone. I understand that I'm not a doctor, lawyer, licensed counselor, etc.. so I can't give medical or legal advice. What I can do is create a space of safety and understanding, to talk about the happenings in each client's life that makes them seek guidance, to explore these issues in a creative way, to discuss the potential outcome on the horizon, and helping them to collect the charms they'll need to stay true to their own path.
