

COPY OF TREE OF LIFE

YAN AND SHELLY OSTROFF

Introduction

This 'Tree of Life' offers an overview of the 'first spiral' of collectives, networks, field-leaders, public figures and more that we may want to consider inviting to support Codes for a Healthy Earth and co-create their implementation. The purpose of this list is manifold:

- To show the diversity and caliber of the groups and individuals who are invited to help support the Codes.
- To help groups within the same sector see each other and identify possibilities for mutual support.
- To help groups from different sectors see the diversity and unifying potential of aligning around the Codes.
- To help form self-organizing stewardship circles according to the Eco-Governance model.
- To populate a platform for each to showcase their project (website, video etc)
- Identify sector/field ambassadors/ coordinators.

Wisdom Councils

I am well aware that my work makes a small, but not insignificant, contribution to an immensely larger picture that I sometimes receive glimpses off, yet not enough for my rational mind to determine how I am best able to proceed. Hence guidance from Spirit which transcends the limitation of my own awareness is essential. That's also how I see the nascent Sacred Earth Council (SE Council). Rather than examine how it differs from other groups that function in ways similar to what is emerging for the SE Council, I suggest considering how it might relate/interconnect with them. In a few hours searching the web I have only scratched the surface of the number of councils/networks/groups that in various ways serve to promote "mutual healing... to bring ourselves out of denial and into transformation and unification of our Great Human Spirit."

Here are links that give a flavor of the extent and diversity of such endeavors (I note where the SE Council has connections):

- Elders, Partners and Council of The Fountain: <https://thefountain.earth/people/> --Jyoti serve as a connection here;
- Four Winds International Institute: <https://www.fwii.net/groups> --Chief Phil serves as a connection here;
- Religions for the Earth: <https://centerforearthethics.org/religions-for-the-earth/> --Mindahi serves as a connection here through the Center for Earth Ethics;
- Green Faith Circles: https://greenfaith.org/Circles/;
- Transition Network: <https://transitioninitiative.org/hub-list/> --Terry serves as a link here, and I'm grateful for becoming aware of this through Terry's profile page;
- World Peace Library—From Inner to International Creating A Global Culture of Peace: <https://worldpeacelibrary.com/orgs> --This is an amazing list of links to other organizations; Chief Phil provides a link to this through Four Winds International Institute and I am able to serve as a connection to the National Peace Academy (see below);
- National Peace Academy: <https://www.nationalpeaceacademy.us/about-us/partners> --links to many more excellent organizations/groups; NPAS's founder Dot Maver is a good friend, and someone I would like see join the SE Council.

As is evident in the baker's dozen above, a partial view of what is happening globally, the SE Council already has connections to many. I see the SE Council as part of a network, co-equal to many other emerging and well-established councils and similar organizations. With the already existing connections, I see a wonderful potential for the SE Council serving as a place where the work of many established/emerging groups can be shared for cross-fertilization.
