

The government needs to save the gambling business

That is why the Betting and Games Committee (BGC) has taken on the national governments in question in a request to extend the furlough program. Started during the first phase of the COVID-19 pandemic to support citizens and protect them from losing their jobs.

But the plan expires in October, just a few months later, meaning companies will return to their usual financial contributions to public finances for their employees. It will be 20% in September, and this rate will double in October. 경마

The CEO of BGC explained why the situation is so important. Casinos located across the country spent a lot of money doing everything possible to ensure the safety of their employees and visitors after the reopening. But they didn't get the promised permission to reopen. If the government does not extend the program, land-based gambling facilities will suffer because they will not receive profits. The current situation may also lead to the closure of historically important casinos that attract players from all over the world.
