

You don't have to write out a full story for every day (you're going to miss/forget sometimes), but when motivated or you have a really good story, put the entire thing in this document!

Pills + Drugs (a Grandma Story)

Generations are different

Older generations stop caring about stuff that doesn't matter

They almost turn back into kids think of your grandparents its like the bell curve of human existence you're not self-aware when young hyper self-aware in the middle then you get older, and you're less self aware but maybe thats the genius

You just realize it doesnt matter anyway, mom is always helping grandma taking her to doctor appts getting her scripts making sure she has her medicine and grandam likes to repay her with cash of course there is no venmo

so i get back home and didnt realize mom was turning into Escobar she has a check from grandma on the table

$133 cash (in check form)

And in the check memo

All it has are the details:

pills and drugs!

we had a great laugh
