Former Knight of the Order

Knights of RedCliff

1st March 2020

To my faithful Knights of RedCliff,

This month marks the end of yet another year since I devoted myself to becoming the most valuable and active officer any group within this genre has ever had before me. Yet another year of harsh, rigorous training, ceaseless dedication, and complete devotion of what little time I had to bettering this group and those who currently compose the soldiers of it. To those who have remained after all this time, I congratulate each of you for the accolades, promotions, and for what you have learned under my instruction and authority. Coincidentally there will be no more information which I can impart in the year to come.

Today, after beginning my servitude to the Knights of RedCliff over seven years ago, I now resign from my position as Knight of the Order. Furthermore, I now relieve myself from the duties of moderating, teaching, hosting group activities, or pushing for recruitment. Those tasks are now required of our hierarchy, to assemble together and elect worthy candidates to take my place and continue to enhance this organization and its people to the greatest degree possible. No less will win us the war.

As the Knights of RedCliff was the final anchor keeping me on this account, I will no longer remain to tend my old projects, speak with my friends, or maintain my old rate of activity. As such, my respectable places which relate to the Knights of RedCliff in some way will be open to join, provided this engine is capable of handling their capacity. This is in the hope that some of you may find inspiration from them. I ask that in my absence each of you preserve this group and all that we stood for, whether it be in creating, attending, or participating in the war.

In my departure it is my expectation that those who gain power will use it as I did, in active pursuit of furthering the group, with whatever skills they have to offer. In my years of office I hosted through a great deal of the worst hardships I have yet faced in my life, be it from heartbreak, injury, illness, depression, and the loss of friendships along the way, I remained active, and I hope that that level of commitment passes on to everyone who reads this.

I am grateful for each and every one of you whom I have had the privilege to serve alongside, despite clear discrepancies in ideals, methods, or philosophies. Through each of you I have learned more than I believe any of you could have gleaned from what I've tried to teach you. Through the group we've all forged together, I've received invaluable leadership, teaching, skills, and experience. I appreciate all the soldiers for whom I had the pleasure of being a mentor, trainer, and teacher. You have made my experience here not only entertaining, but frustrating with your antics, repartee, and your behaviors. I will remember all of these years fondly for the rest of my days, and I hope the feeling is mutual.

I now resign for many reasons. It seems that life has hardened me. As luck would have it, this toughness has gained me opportunities which I would never have received in the past. It would be unfair to new leaders rising through the ranks if I took these new chances and left this group behind as an inactive officer, filling space for those who would serve us better. For this reason, I have made the decision to leave the group, and leave this season of my life behind for the time being.

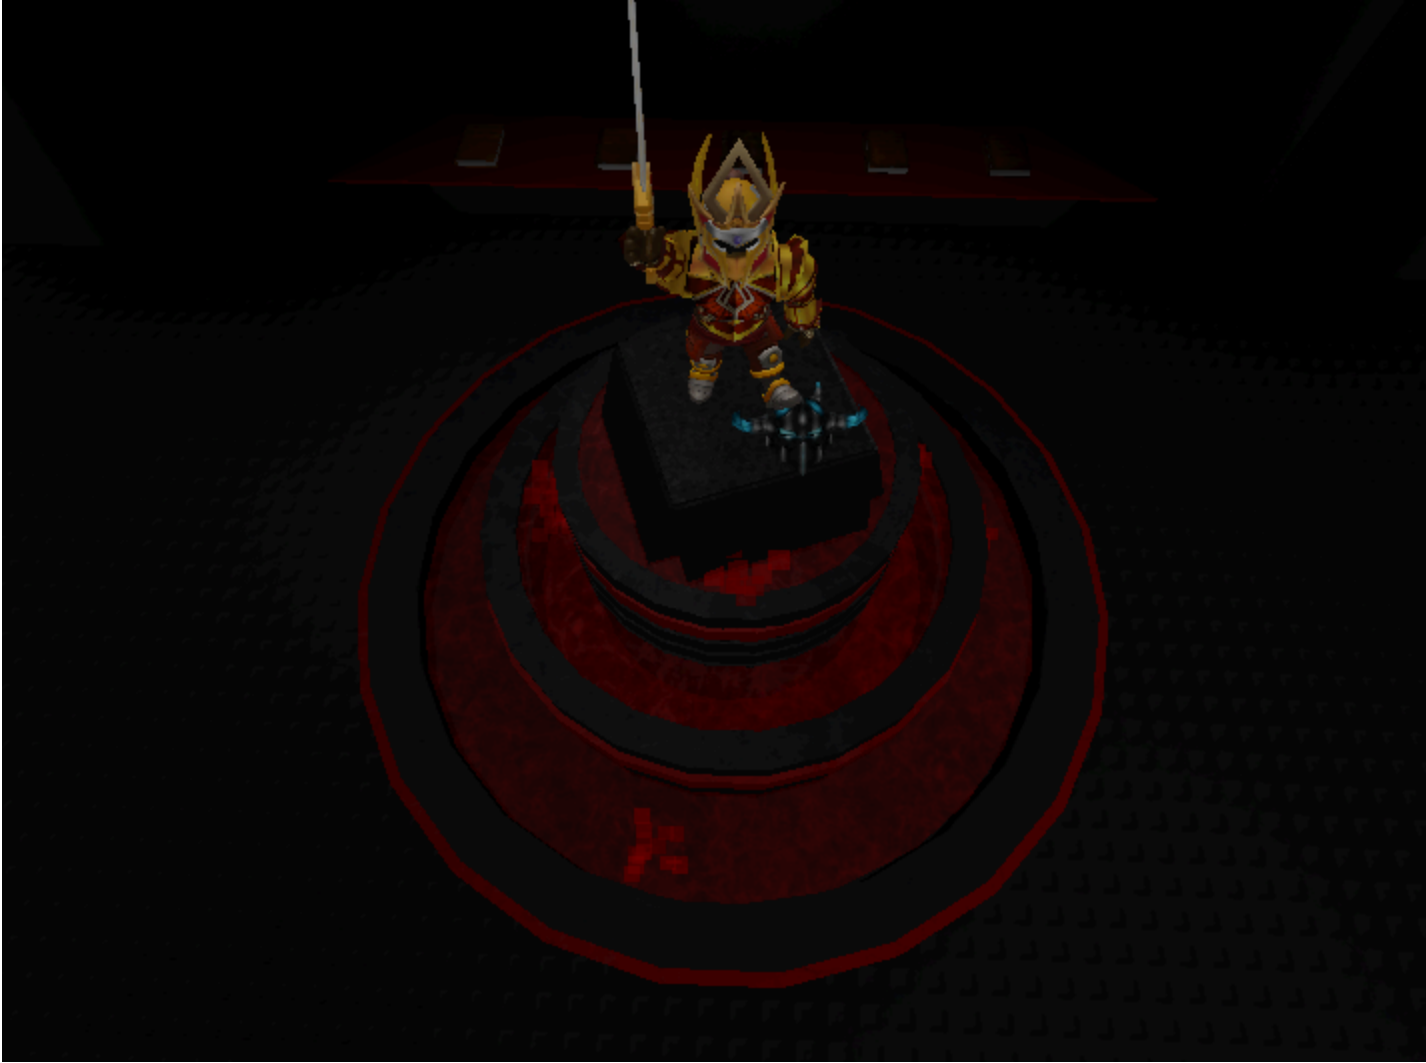

I now have one adamant request for you to follow through with. Do not be afraid to create. After all, this is the purpose of Roblox. I ask that each of you design original characters, stories, and information for me to study, and even share with my children one day. Not only do I want to see this group competing with Korblox's Empire in their lore, I want it to surpass them. It is my hope that in due time this dream can be achieved with hard work and initiative. That said, I will be keeping a close eye on the advancements of this group, and I am eager to offer any advice for anyone who can contact me at a time when I am available.

I wish you all the best, soldiers.

Your former officer,

Aionyte.
