

Note for John: Yellow highlights are where I have changed an existing header on the template.

Home Page

Luxury Interior Designers In London

“Koru” is a Maori word, whose symbol of the uncoiling fern represents new beginnings, peace, tranquillity and spirituality.

Our interior designs aim to bring these elements to your living or working space, giving you a completely unique, tailored space that is directly suited to your personality and desires.

Our designs always reflect:

- The people using the room
- The purpose of the room
- The longevity of the room

Our Bespoke Design Process

Our design process ensures that we can fully dedicate our time to clients who we can form a strong and harmonious connection with.

Time is spent to connect with you on a personal level, so that your design will reflect who you are.

1. Consultation

This is usually done over the phone.

We will discuss your property, your desires and your goals for the space.

2. Chemistry Meeting

We then visit your property to assess the space and get to know you further.

We can both get a feel for how well we are able to work together, and if the chemistry is right to move forward.

We will discuss possibilities for your property – structure, layout, colour schemes, focus points, and everything else related to your bespoke design.

3. Proposal

From here we can give you some estimates for the design that dwell within your budget.

You can look over the proposal at your leisure, using the time to ask any more questions or add any requests, should they arise.

We meet again to refine the proposal until you are completely satisfied. Depending on your preferences, we can go out for lunch or dinner, even the theatre as we polish the design.

The process continues until you are fully satisfied with the proposal. We always aim for perfection.

4. Fruition

Once you are completely happy, we arrange the work to be done, overseeing the entire project so that your design becomes manifest.

Like What You've Seen?

If our designs resonate with you, feel free to get in touch with us.

We can discuss your property during a free consultation, and decide from there whether it would be a good fit for us to come to visit you in person.

Services Page

Bespoke Designs

We offer our complete energy and focussed attention to produce your perfect, customised space.

We ensure that our designs reflect who you are as a person, how the space is being used and how long you plan to stay within the space.

We provide a premium, precise interior design service that is built with your life and personality at the foundation. We create a design that suits you, supports you, and enhances your quality of life.

Forming Connections

Our service is very focussed around the clients we are designing for.

We take into consideration everything we can about you, your family, your colleagues, or whoever will be entering the space.

We work to establish trust, understanding and mutual respect with you from the very beginning.

We pay attention to your likes, dislikes, choice of clothing, creative interests, even your favourite wines or choice of car can influence how your design turns out. We pick up on everything we can while we are designing your space.

A Work Of Passion

This is more than just a job for us. This is our vehicle for true creative expression, which brings peace, contentment and joy to the people we create for.

We aim to use our innate creativity to bring you the sense of calm, wonder and beauty that we experienced when we first conceived the idea for our company, while surrounded by the splendorous mountains of New Zealand.

Our Design Style

Our design style is contemporary but eclectic. We are very flexible and adaptable, always ready to bring in various styling techniques to give you your perfect space.

We like to design freely, not caged in to any singular design frameworks, never needing to follow any current trend. Our designs are for you and your life in the property.

Our head stylist has some Ghanaian heritage, which she is happy to bring into designs wherever they will work well. Bright colours and patterned prints seem to be in her soul.

Who We Work For

Our work often leads us to luxury apartments in Chelsea, Knightsbridge and Islington Green. We have designed for many beautiful homes in the UK for owners based abroad, and we have designed office spaces for buildings such as Canary Wharf.

We also offer outdoor design services for our clients who are seeking a beautiful outdoor space to enjoy and use as they wish.

Like What You've Seen?

If what you have seen so far evokes a sense of excitement, ease or intrigue for you, please feel free to contact us.

We can begin to discuss the details of your property, and see if we can form a strong working relationship.

Portfolio Page

Our Most Recent Interior Design Projects

Below are some of our most recent interior designs.

We are so grateful to have worked on these spaces, to have designed them from meetings with our clients, and to have overseen the projects from start to finish.

We hope you enjoy your viewing...

Like What You've Seen?

If you like what you've seen on our portfolios page, feel free to contact us.

We can discuss your property over the phone and begin to take the next steps in the design process.

About Page

Our Story

Our head designer, Angela Gardner, founded Koru Designs after a successful 12-year career in advertising and marketing.

A born creative, Angela loved bringing her creative energies to promotional campaigns for businesses of all sizes, and was soon sought-after for her advertising services.

Angela specialised in the client-management side of creative advertising, and was renowned for forming such strong and beneficial relationships with her clients. One client relationship turned into a very close friendship, so close that Angela was later honoured as a godmother!

Gradually, however, advertising and marketing became far more data-driven, and less infused with creative energy. Angela became less satisfied in her job, since she no longer had the same outlet for her creativity to help people.

A time away spent travelling abroad led Angela to New Zealand, where an injury forced her to rest, reflect, and pay attention to the part of her life where she was no longer happy.

She had worked as an interior designer for friends in the past, purely to help them out. She had never truly considered pursuing it as a profession, even when her friends urged her to.

Finally in New Zealand, opening up the curtains in the morning to view the wondrous landscape of green rolling hills, Angela realised that she wanted to give this feeling of peace she had to other people. She wanted more people to feel like this when they wake up in the morning, when they look around them, when they walk into a room. She felt she wanted to give people the sense of contentment and relaxation that she now was possible to have in a home.

So she decided to do it.

Inspired by her surroundings in New Zealand, Koru Interiors was born.

When Angela returned to the UK, things seemed to build momentum quickly. She committed herself to her new purpose, and is grateful to say how well things are working out.

Her client list has built up through word of mouth, recommendations, and she attributes this largely to the level of passion and personal energy she devotes to each project. These are not just interior designs. These are expressions of who you are.

She is a natural perfectionist, and won't truly rest until you are totally happy with what has been created for you.

Angela is now an interior designer for some of the most luxurious properties in the UK, and is also accredited by the SDC (Style Design College) in Milan, Italy.

Our Approach To Bespoke Interior Design

Our approach is always personal. The room always depends on your personality.

When designing a living space, for example, we will build a picture of how you spend your day, what you do with your time, and who else uses the room. If a couple is married now – do they plan to have children? Will this become a long-term family home? We consider all things when designing a space, so that it can serve you to last the test of time.

We can walk into a room and see how beautiful it could be. Getting to know you helps us to refine and hone this vision so that it suits you perfectly.

Like What You've Seen?

If you would like to work with Angela on a design project, feel free to contact us today.

You will be able to discuss your property with Angela during a free consultation, and let the relationship blossom from there.