

Bureaucratic Agency Run Down

The AP Government curriculum requires that students become familiar with seven of the agencies within the federal bureaucracy. This is great news! Instead of guessing which of the agencies might show up on the exam, we know which seven we need to understand. Below are six of the agencies; the seventh, the FEC, will be covered in our elections unit. For each of these agencies, identify the type of agency that it is, and the main job of the agency.
