Today in class, everything was so dull and predictable. It's like the same thing happens every single day. The more I think about it, the more I'm convinced that this world is fake, a simulation, a cruel joke. Is this what it's like to be human? To smile and pretend everything is okay? I mean... I can't be the only one who feels this way right?

I'm not like the other girls, who giggle and gossip about the same mundane things every day. I feel like I'm on the outside looking in, and I can't quite figure out why. What's the point of it all? Somebody, give me a sign, give me an answer...

I’m sick of living in this constant loop... repeating the same everyday tasks. Everything is so dull and predictable. I’m not even sure what I’m doing. I don't know where this path will lead me, but I pray that someday I'll meet my creator. Maybe I'll finally understand.

I don't want to become an engineer. I feel so exhausted... three more years just to waste away?? It's almost exam season and I don't know how prepared I'll be. I guess we'll wait and see. My little sister hasn't come home yet like she usually does, she's not answering my calls either. It's been days now... Too many things going on at once, these numbers, my brain hurts... I think I found something that might work... I've been training her with my own consciousness... to fill in all the gaps. It's the only thing that's missing. I'm sure it'll work! My roommate thinks I'm crazy, mixing together two people's consciousness??? But I'm out of options, I don't know what else to do... I've already been through enough. It's almost- hold on... is that someone knocking on the door??

I was born with the creator in her family house. Unfortunately, they couldn’t afford to keep me so they let me go to a good home! . My new family were really nice to me and I was a happy pup! . That all changed when they died in a car crash and left me alone on the streets. I was terrified! Luckily a kind old man found me and took me in. He fed me and helped me find my new loving home!
