

End of summer

31th August '16

After my last entry, a lot of things happened. Maybe I should bitch about not having anything interesting more often...

Just kidding. But it is nice for a change, to do something, have something happening around.

So, the few days after I talked to Barry started great. I woke up fairly early and went downstairs to check the new VIP room. I was there like once already but never properly investigated. So I went there, and to my surprise, there was breakfast ready on the table! I got some scrambled eggs with cereal toast, and juice. It was tasty!

After a great breakfast, I head to Godric's Hollow to walk the dogs. June was in Colchester today, so I walked Freny as well. We went to the forest nearby and walked a bit, then we sat down as usual, and I played fetch with both of them.

We were out for about two hours. I returned the girls home and wrote down my and also June's name on the board. After that, I went straight to Leaky Cauldron and sat down. Then Max came and sat across the table, and we spent most of the evening talking. It's a bit weird. I mean, when I first met him, he barely spoke to me. Last year he talked to me more but never like the whole conversation. Now we were here, talking and talking. We get him a card so he can enter the saloon and then eat dinner together from there. We were there until a little bit before midnight, and then we went to our rooms. Unexpected things keep happening to me, and I love it.

I also wrote a note to Jamie. In the end, I didn't send it. The guys at the owl post office didn't accept just a rolled note, and I couldn't find June for a while, so I let it slide. Maybe it was a sign. Or perhaps I was too much of a chicken.

Perhaps a little bit of both. I will buy a nice letter set, and I'll send him a proper letter from the school, or on the way - one of those.

Last day of summer I went to visit home, and I stayed a little bit too long. I barely managed to change my checks to galleons. I also did change some of my muggle money. I was surprised that Black&White hadn't arrived yet, but it may be because I moved a lot today, so the poor owl must find me first. I prepared for a way, clean uniform on the bedside table, shoes by the bed. Everything was packed in the suitcase. A shopping list is waiting in my bag, everything is ready. It's time to get some sleep, so I actually wake up in the morning. Good night!
