Full Bio

"One of Ireland's most exciting voices… Billy's songwriting ability and level of musicianship is astonishing" – The Beat

Mr Billy Fitzgerald is a Dublin-based solo artist whose infectious indie-pop juxtaposes tales of romantic misadventures with upbeat grooves, catchy choruses, and a soaring falsetto that's impossible to ignore. Drawing inspiration from icons like Prince, Beck, and David Byrne and with a knack for witty, self-aware lyrics, he describes his music as "songs about heartbreak that make you want to dance".

Before going solo, Billy fronted Dublin indie-popsters The Dead Flags. He toured Europe, played massive stages, and even scored a Top 30 hit in Ireland. After taking a break, Billy returned to the music scene as a solo artist, quickly gaining a dedicated fanbase and attention from publications like Hot Press. His inventive music videos and catchy singles have earned thousands of views online and regular airplay on stations like 2XM.

"Billy establishes himself as a fresh and vital voice in Dublin's pop scene" – XSNoize.

Billy's debut album, "A Grand Romantic Gesture", showcases his incredible vocal range and genre-blending style, from soul and 80s funk to hip-hop. Self-recorded in various locations, and completed in the legendary Abbey Road Studios, the album is a personal collection of songs about heartbreak and healing, each paired with a pulse-pounding rhythm and a chorus you'll find yourself singing long after you've finished listening.

"A perfect debut album" - Tempo Magazine

Billy's live shows, whether solo or with a full band, are high-energy and brimming with charisma. With over two decades of performance experience opening for bands like The Frames and The Coronas, his live shows are a must-see. "A Grand Romantic Gesture" marks the beginning of what promises to be an exciting journey for Mr Billy Fitzgerald.
