Candidate Question #1: Why do you feel that you are qualified for the position for which you have declared your candidacy?

Not only do I have experience with student government prior to being admitted to USC, being President & CEO of the student body at CSUSM and being a member of the California State Student Association, but I also have experience in government processes in general. I have worked for the California State Senate, the United States Senate, and advocated on all levels of government for education and housing reform. While I might be new to USC, I feel that I could use these skills to benefit all USC students and encourage real change through policy and advocacy.

Candidate Question #2: Why do you want the USC Undergraduate Student Government position that you are running for?

The legislative branch is often the branch of government that is the most animated and reliable for getting effective change done. My experience with legislative officials, as well as my political experience, would allow me to start off with an edge and focus on representing the student's needs. I feel that I can be the most effective in this position starting out in Undergraduate Student Government, which would aid me in building my connections with the student body and partners.

Candidate Question #3: What changes would you like to see at this university, and why?

I would love to see an increase in participation in student organizations and student government. Not only this, but an increase in pride for communities that students are a part of should also be a vital part of the university experience. This is important to allow students to not feel left out and develop connections with a community that resonates with them and their beliefs/interests. Furthermore, changes to the affordability of the University and providing resources to students who might be food or housing insecure would be a major platform that I would love to shed more light on.
