

A new approach

Hey Jordan,

Just came across your Inner King men's retreat and thought that was a great way to help other men find their inner peace.

While coming across your type form links which are good ideas when getting your audience to a quiz to figure out how to exactly help the person.

A video along with the quiz would make a more personal touch when you talk about your course content.

This approach could bring more engagement getting your leads more interested in buying your courses.

A top player in this niche like basedaustindunham uses this same approach to have a better connection as well as get the audience curious making them want to buy the course.

Would you like to implement this approach?

Warm regards,

Ari