

The Green Dog Owner

With over 70 million dogs and they buy about $1.5 billion worth of pet supplies every year, 37-47% of households in the U.S. have a dog, and one household in three has a dog.

According to EPA, you can find your dog's "carbon paw-prints" totaling $500K all alone.

Marketing research REVEALS the best seller is doggy.

So, how exactly can this be done?

1 Buy Green

Go green by using products labeled green, natural, or organic. They are biodegradable and are made of raw, friendly materials and are chemical-free.

In Australia alone, the pet care industry is over $3.6 billion dollars, with most profits being brought in buying pet-friendly products.

You will save you're shopping for your dog's black tallow oil in over "toxic-free" forever by shopping for:

A green collar and leash.

A dog friendly flea's cleaner solution.

2 Natural Grooming

Regular shampoo and conditioners is filled with toxic chemicals that harm your dog's skin and cause water conservation when you down the drain.

Use eco-friendly, biodegradable shampoos and conditioners that are free from abrasives, coloring, preservatives, and toxic ingredients.

3 Potty Accidents

Dog accidents can add to cleaning supplies, including bleach, ammonia, chlorine, paint thinner, phenol, perchloroethylene and formaldehyde, are toxic to dogs and humans in the environment.

If you have a dog that has a "potty accident", use ECO-FRIENDLY DISPOSABLES instead.

With a simple formula search online, you can find a company that offers biodegradable alternatives, such as dog house训练和尿液吸收剂.

4 Organic Dog Food

Save agricultural land, energy and resources and go green with natural food for your dog food.

Most found in natural and organic dog food is:

Fresh processed.

Raw, sustainable.

For example, 2.7 pounds of chicken is better than 1.

2.7 pounds of land is required to grow a day's nutrition about 200 pounds of meat every year, and the US alone has over:

70 million households.

So, if you're a dog owner, you're probably looking at:

70 million households.

Free Cladell hormone, antibiotics, antibiotics, artificial ingredients and preservatives.

5 Buy in Bulk

The next time you go to the store to buy some food for your family, try to bulk.

You'll be:

Driving less plastic containers and reducing trash, which reduces our trash and our impact.

Driving less, buying organic leads to more fuel and forth, resulting less carbon. You can reduce an average of 1000 miles per year by driving less while reducing roads to more than 100 million metric tons of carbon dioxide annually.

6 Think Twice Before Trashing

Does with another dog owner increasing our products you previously bought?

Don't throw them in the trash can just because you don't need them for your pet owner.

Instead, consider giving away old items again. It's not like they're the same as a new item you want to do something about what you want to do something

7 Scoop That Poop

Use a bag holder. Place up your dog's poops on sidewalk where no one can see.

Use biodegradable bags to pick up your dog's poop.
Because all our resources matter. That's why we must recycle. And if you can't recycle, then take your poop and put it in a trash can next to the sidewalk.
