

Syllabus for LIT-3010

ADVANCED AMERICAN LITERATURE I

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This upper-level course is an in-depth study of American literature beginning with Native American trickster tales and the literature of the early explorers and settlers and ending with works that explore issues of race and freedom during and after the time of the American Civil War. Well-known writers are included as well as significant writers who are less often studied. The course involves analysis of texts and synthesis of readings as well as a significant amount of writing. Students write a documented research paper as a final project.

COURSE TOPICS

- Native American and European encounters
- The Puritan mindset
- National and individual identities
- Race and slavery
- American Romanticism

COURSE OBJECTIVES

After completing this course, students should be able to:

- CO 1 Interpret primary texts from American literature that have shaped or reflected American culture from early Native American oral literature to works written during and just after the American Civil War.
- CO 2 Analyze characters, literary styles, and themes in the works covered.
- CO 3 Compare and contrast significant texts and ideas.
- CO 4 Explore the questions, issues, and controversies present in American literature through 1865, evaluating how they have evolved over time.
- CO 5 Relate these works of literature, including their themes and characters, to the lives and identities of the current population of the United States.

- CO 6 Analyze works of American literature, synthesizing material, ideas, and concepts from scholarly sources.
- CO 7 Synthesize readings and ideas raised by the readings, including the historical, political, and social background of the time period while incorporating critical insight from scholarly sources.

COURSE STRUCTURE

Advanced American Literature is a three-credit, online course consisting of six modules. The course requires you to complete five written assignments and one final paper. The final paper for this course is a 12- to 15-page paper focusing on how six writers covered in the course address issues of religion (in particular Puritanism), economics, gender, and race. These themes will be seen throughout the course and you will be expected to become familiar with how these themes recur throughout the period studied. You are required to participate in graded online discussions and an ungraded Introductions Forum. Each week in the semester begins on Monday and ends on Sunday. Modules include an overview, topics, learning objectives, study materials, and activities. Module titles are listed below.

- Module 1: Native Voices; European Explorers
Course objectives covered in this module: CO 1, CO 2, CO 6

ASSESSMENT METHODS

For your formal work in the course, you are required to participate in online discussion forums, complete written assignments, and complete a final project. See below for details.

Consult the Course Calendar for due dates.

Promoting Originality

One or more of your course activities may utilize a tool designed to promote original work and evaluate your submissions for plagiarism. More information about this tool is available in this document.

Discussion Forums

You are required to complete eleven discussion forums. The discussion forums are on a variety of topics associated with the course modules.

PowerPoint Presentations

You are required to complete two PowerPoint presentations. The PowerPoint presentations are on a variety of topics associated with the course modules.

Written Assignments

You are required to complete five written assignments. The written assignments are on a variety of topics associated with the course modules.

Final Project

You will complete a paper of 3000 to 3750 words (12 to 15 pages, double-spaced). The final paper requires you to assess how the texts of writers from different time periods addressed, confronted, and critiqued one of the following topics: religion (in particular, Puritanism) economics (capitalism, “the work ethic”), gender, or race. To make sure you are staying on track with the final paper, you will select the theme early in the course and submit an abstract of the final paper. The final paper is due in the last week of the course. Consult the Course Calendar for due dates.

GRADING AND EVALUATION

Your grade in the course will be determined as follows:

- Online discussions (11)—20%
- PowerPoint presentations (2)—10%
- Written assignments (5)—40%
- Final paper—30%
 - Writer and theme selection (required but not graded)
 - Abstract (required but not graded)
 - Comprehensive assessment (30%)

All activities will receive a numerical grade of 0–100. You will receive a score of 0 for any work not submitted. Your final grade in the course will be a letter grade. Letter grade equivalents for numerical grades are as follows:

A	= 93–100	C+	= 78–79
A–	= 90–92	C	= 73–77
B+	= 88–89	C–	= 70–72
B	= 83–87	D	= 60–69
B–	= 80–82	F	= Below 60

To receive credit for the course, you must earn a letter grade of C or better (for an area of study course) or D or better (for a course not in your area of study), based on the weighted average of all assigned course work (e.g., exams, assignments, discussion postings).

STRATEGIES FOR SUCCESS

First Steps to Success

To succeed in this course, take the following first steps:

- Read the entire Syllabus carefully, making sure that all aspects of the course are clear to you and that you have all the materials required for the course.
- Take time to read the entire Online Student Handbook. The Handbook answers many questions about how to proceed through the course and how to get the most from your educational experience at Thomas Edison State University.
- Familiarize yourself with the learning management systems environment—how to navigate it and what the various course areas contain. If you know what to expect as you navigate the course, you can better pace yourself and complete the work on time.

- If you are not familiar with web-based learning, be sure to review the processes for posting responses online and submitting assignments before class begins.

Study Tips

Consider the following study tips for success:

- To stay on track throughout the course, begin each week by consulting the Course Calendar. The Course Calendar provides an overview of the course and indicates due dates for submitting assignments, posting discussions, and submitting the final paper.
- Check Announcements regularly for new course information.
