

Yeah, this time it's goodbye for good, and I'm sorry.

I'm just gonna start with this. With the break up, this was 100% on me. I'm not going into any more detail, but this is on me and I don't want anyone to defend me.

I'm deleting Twitter. This app has caused me so much distress and has got me into arguments that I regret getting myself into. I am so sorry to everyone that I have created drama with and I am so sorry to everyone that I have been rude towards.

I will also most likely be quitting playing on bancho for a while. I will mainly play offline and/or on a different server. I know this may seem a bit extreme, but the game has been causing me an insane amount of stress recently, which on top of all of this, I've decided to quit playing competitively for a bit. This means I will not be playing in the TNT quals this weekend.

If you have me added on Discord, please do not message me asking if I want to talk or anything, I don't want to dump anything onto anyone, nor do I wish to discuss this subject with anyone. Please do not message me just to talk about this, if I wish to talk to someone about it I'll ask.

I'm currently waiting to get in contact with a therapist so I can try to change myself for the better, so I don't do anything else to cause problems or hurt others. Today I was on the phone talking with the mental health team, where I will be speaking with someone face to face soon.

Once again, I am sorry to everyone that I've hurt. Please do not send any hate towards anyone who discusses this subject, as they don't deserve it.

Goodbye for now osu!

Goodbye for good Twitter.

- chloe