

Hello dear friends!

Are you interested to know the answer of?

How should you transcribe spoken contractions (Y'all, ain't, can't, don't, it's) in Clean Verbatim?

this question? Then I am trying to provide you the correct answer of this question.

Question and options are given below.

How should you transcribe spoken contractions (Y'all, ain't, can't, don't, it's) in Clean Verbatim?

a) Y'all, ain't, can't, don't, it's.

b) You all, are not, cannot, do not, do not, it is

According to the transcriptions rule the option (A) is correct.

Explanation:

Dear friends according to transcriptions rule:

Never change spoken contractions (e.g. y'all, ain't, don't, can't, it's, et cetera.) Example: If the speaker says "it's", it should be kept as "it's" regardless of the verbatim

Therefore, the option (A) is correct.