Applicant's Short Bio-Note (Maximum 150 Words): Currently working as a journalist in Bangalore, I originally hail from Darjeeling, a small hill station in West Bengal. I have been writing poetries since I was in class three and I clearly remember the thrill of seeing my poems published in a local magazine then. I decided to pursue journalism after my graduation, and when I did, a poet in me kind of died. I was caught up in the hurly-burly of city life, and just a few months back, when I realized I needed to rewind and heal, I started writing poetries again and it transported me to a better place, all over again.
