

Demochees

Content Warning - Mentions of drawn and irl NSFW content, sexual blackmail, suicide, manipulation, transphobia

I want to start this with as much clarity as I can: I was waiting contently for this all to blow over. Devyn is not in a good headspace, and I did not want to push them to do anything rash by making some corny “callout document.” However, at this point, they have blackmailed me, slandered me, and made themselves out to be a martyr being dogged on by the “evil” MSM community while controlling the narrative through my own inaction. I’m sorry that I’m not great at making a doc like this, I tend to write somewhat rambly when it comes to this stuff. I’ll try and keep it short and to the point, and provide image evidence where applicable - but please know that a lot of stuff has been deleted and not all of it has been things I had the forethought to screenshot.

This doc is written by not just myself, Melody, but also others who wanted to come forward about their experiences. None of this was done without permission, including taken screenshots and anecdotal evidence, and it will be made evident when the person writing changes. I felt this format was the best, ultimately because I firmly believe it is the victim who best understands the situation, and who is best equipped to speak on their own experiences.

This doc uses they/them pronouns for Demochees because - with context you will later see - I struggle to believe they’d still go by she/her. However, I will stick with gender-neutral pronouns, since I don’t necessarily want to commit too hard in the opposite direction either. Identity is not a privilege, it is a right, and it is not something I or anyone else has the right to take away when someone does something improper, and so I want to avoid actively assigning them a gender they do not have.

Melody (Exclaim)

I grew to know Devyn pretty slowly at first, they were someone whose work I looked up to and whose sense of humor I resonated with. They seemed fun, and so we talked and got along pretty well. We got along so well, in fact, the time eventually came where they’d be invited to a private server of mine, a server in which I am very selective about adding people to because it contains a lot of sensitive, private information. I should not have invited them when I did, but even so, I trusted them. I have a habit of trying to see the best in people who others don’t want to, and while others were hesitant since they were a somewhat big creator, I tried my best to introduce them to everyone and make them feel at home regardless.

Something that is important for me to get out there - I am an artist who, on occasion, makes NSFW artwork. I never wanted to say this to this audience, I try to keep that side of me very separate from this account and branding, but it is important context and I will not go into graphic detail regardless. I always do my best to keep it private, or at least in spaces where I can ensure my ability to vet who can and cannot see it to make sure people are adults, and this server was one of those places where I was comfortable sharing it in a private, request-only category. Devyn, upon requesting and getting access to that category, went on to have a very negative reaction to what they saw. Soon after, if my own memory serves, their access was revoked and a more firm system was put in place as to how long someone needs to be in said server in order to get access to said content. We felt things had simply moved too fast, and shelved it for a later date.

Some time later, after they felt they were more ready, they regained access to said content, and even drew some of their own. They had asked for permission to draw my sona/OC in some of it, and I allowed it, considering I had no reason to distrust them. I, if you know me more personally, am pretty lax with how people can use characters I made, within reason of course. I have always been pretty open with myself about my sexuality, and if people find my sona attractive I have never particularly had reservations about that. Now, however, I do, because a friend of mine reached out to me and put it all together in the bigger picture. I was someone devyn evidently relied on, I had tried my best to support them when they were feeling bad mentally, and this type of attraction was something way more concerning than just a friend wanting to draw my character. When I was told that, I (politely) asked them to avoid using my persona in that kind of artwork going forward.

I believe it was sometime after that when they had an argument of some sort with another server member, which led them to leave the server entirely. When they were upset, they had a habit of... lashing out at others, and so it became incredibly difficult to really talk them down from it. Suicide would often be discussed, blaming and villanizing others as well, and this would all be in tandem with public posts being made on YouTube regarding the situation in vague terms. When they broke up with a partner, that became public. When they were cut off from a former friend, that became public. I was the one telling them in private they needed to handle conflict better, that this only results in parasocial relationships, that this will only make ongoing situations worse. They would rarely, if ever, listen.

Even so, I tried to be a shoulder to lean on in private, as best I could without being too overbearing. I constantly worried for their safety and even got into contact with 988 at least once to figure out what to even do for someone whose life seemed to constantly be in question. I cannot say I was always good at being a friend, I was a bad friend to a lot of people around that time. But, I was scared for their life, and it weighed on me deeply to know someone I cared about was hurting so much.

All of this is mentioned to give some level of background information. How they would've gotten certain pieces of information, the history I have with them, the events that have been going on in the background all this time. None of the content above is meant to be accusatory, but I do feel like the nuances involved is relevant to understanding what happened from here on out.

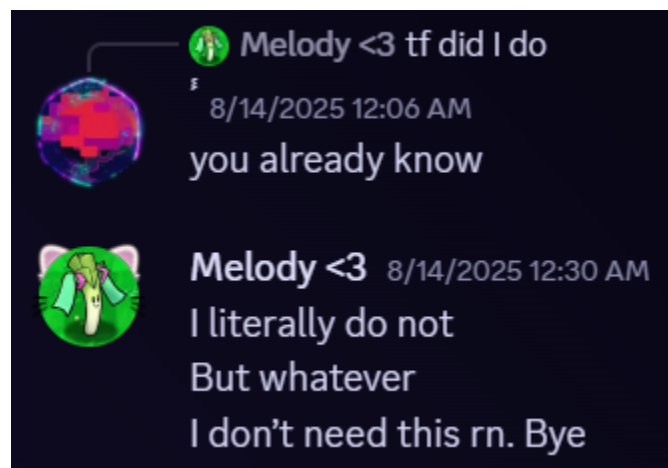

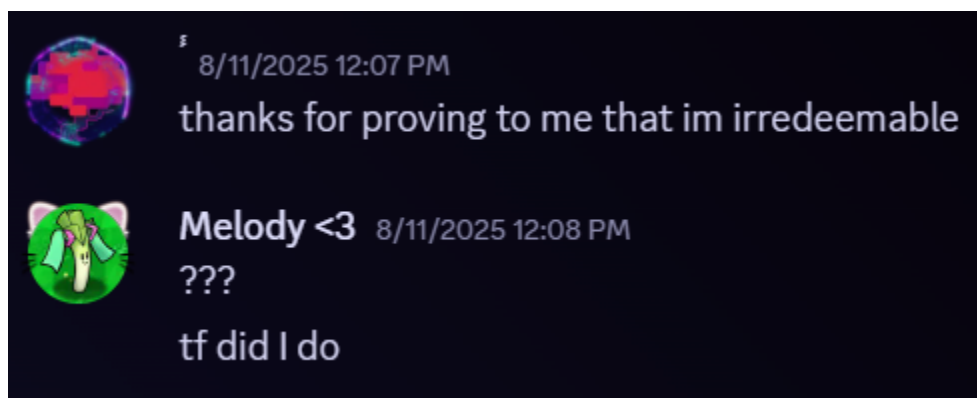

Then, another group of people made a callout, accusing them of being a predator and pedophile. Now, since I was so unsure on the claims given, I remained in their life - albeit at a... healthy distance. Something I think most people don't realize when it comes to a situation like this, is that oftentimes it isn't particularly easy to cut someone off, even once you come to terms with the weight of their actions. Even when you know they are hurting you specifically, there can sometimes be a part of you that feels obligated to stay in their life. In the moment, you see it as loyalty, but in retrospect it takes on a more forced feeling. Sometimes it takes just one impulse for you realize you've been hurt. From my perspective at the time, the supposed victims were still close with them, and they seemed to be good friends at that, so I was inclined to trust their claims of innocence. As time has gone on, however, I have grown to give those accusations a lot more weight.

That all being said, when I was asked to ban them from a server I own, I hardly wanted to defend them. While I believed they were not inherently malicious, I didn't particularly like what had been shown in that doc either. I banned them when it was brought up by a server member, and made sure to dm them proactively to make sure they knew that this was not me suddenly "siding against them," but was me trying to avoid another wave of hate going towards them while things got ironed out. Throughout all this, I was being told they were working on a counter-doc, and so I was trying my best to buy time until that released so I could make a more final judgement.

However, before I at least was able to see this doc, though I do hear it was made, things started getting to a point where I was relatively out of the loop. Devyn would sometimes DM me, sometimes venting, sometimes sillier things, and I would try my best to keep a healthy distance without coming across standoffish, and while making it as clear as possible no hatred lie behind my conflicted-ness(?). It was difficult for me, but I was truly unsure how to feel, and didn't really feel like I knew enough about the greater context to cut them off or defend them.

Now, later on, for reasons I still do not know, Devyn dmed me without any context.

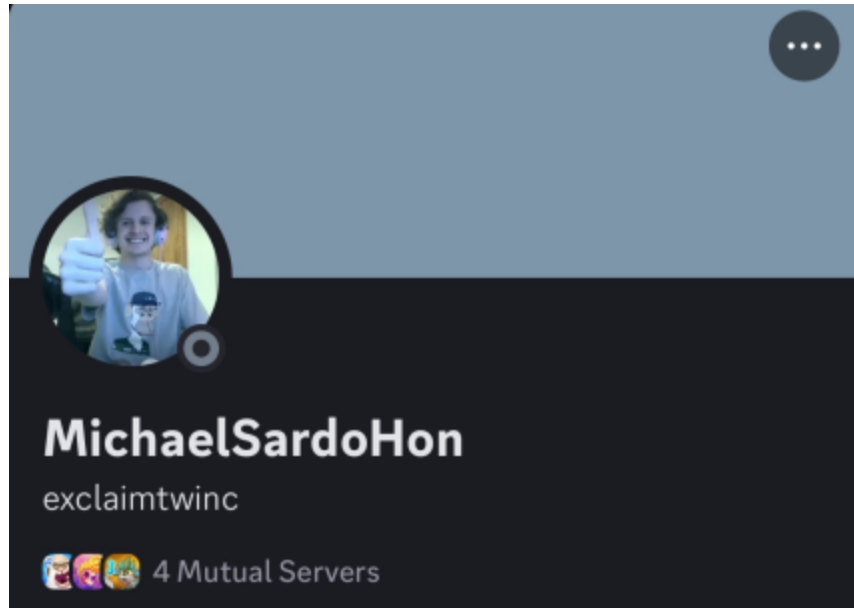

I cannot impress enough that I know nothing about what this DM is about, and how truly betrayed I felt when I received it. I continually put myself in uncomfortable positions to try and keep them out of further trouble, and was repaid by vague accusations with no explanation. Truly, if anyone has context for this, I would love to know, because this was after a pretty positive conversation we had about their mental health improving (which they then later edited).

After this conversation, things went dark for a while. I heard just about nothing from them, and was just kinda left to speculate what they were even talking about.

Then, I start being told about an account pretending to dox me. It used a publicly-available image of me as the profile-picture, and my full deadname as the username. I joked about it with friends, made a post on bluesky talking about how it "didn't even compare" to a past attempt at doxxing (which guessed an entirely incorrect real-name for me. I found this very funny and still do). I figured this was just some random kid, no one who had anything to actually make me worry. This screenshot is not mine.

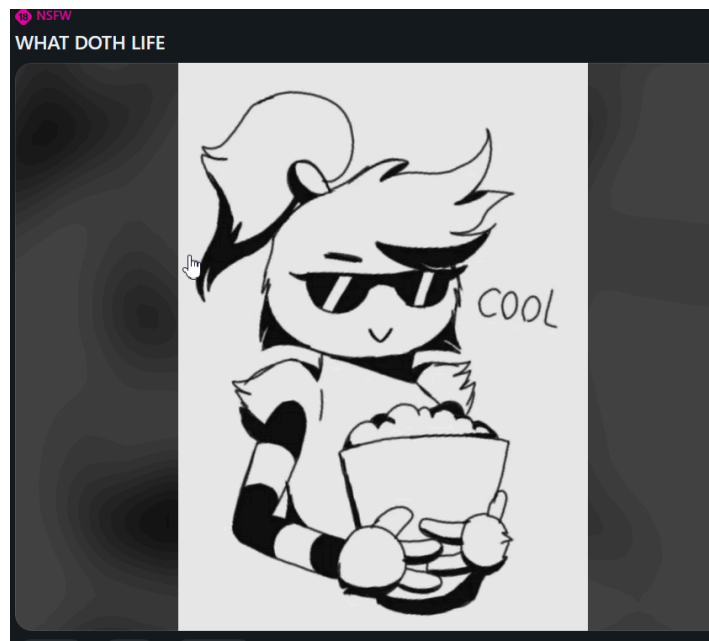

Then the profile picture changed, to a very very private image of me, instead. It was a particularly compromising picture, to the echelon of something that is very illegal to spread around without consent. When this happened, I got the very lovely task of reaching out to the friends I have who still moderate MSM-related servers to try and keep that image from spreading, all while I tried to figure out what the hell to do.

Now, the thing with the image in question, is very few people have ever had access to it. In a private server, it is multiple nested layers deep in privacy, and everyone else who still has that image is someone I am very much on good terms with. The only person who ever did, and the only person who would have reason to/would even think to spread it in the way they did, is Devyn. Devyn is not new to sharing images of this regard as well, as I know of a drawn image they had made of them and an ex that I certainly should not have seen, and yet I was shown anyways. Obviously, I will not be posting that screenshot here. I know just about for certain that this alt would have to be them, especially with added context from others who knew them more up to the end of it all.

This means that not only did devyn join a bunch of servers filled with children while having a pornographic profile picture, but in doing so also committed a crime. The act of sharing nude photos without consent is a crime, one I have been told by people who work with this kind of situation professionally that I can press charges on (and have been weighing my options on if I want to, and how to go about it.) I remember occasionally checking the account's layout after the fact, and noticing them also changing it to an image of sarah, and an image of someone who I didn't recognize at the time, but later found out to be Jude (further proving this account was ran by devyn). I did not screenshot these other layouts, and obviously do not want to share the one that was a private image of me, but others can corroborate the fact this happened.

A reddit account was also made, which posted several private drawn images by myself and visscagem in the msm rule 34 subreddit, while also making a subreddit titled r/mysingingsch*zo in which they posted an image of what is very clearly a variation of their sona drawn in their art style. The timing, in addition to the continual deadnaming of myself, leads me to believe this is Devyn as well.

Now, the thing that pushed me to make this post, was the continued slander and lies I have been seeing Devyn post about me, my partner, and others they once called friends.

how many times i gotta say it

Ok here's a Brief explanation on Demochees' drama and a little bit more this kid has done

Demochees was recently exposed by a former friend named "Micheal". APPARENTLY, Demochees exposed MantisGirls Disgusting posts online to a 15 year old, used NSFW noises for one of their monsters, made strange art and weird jokes. A lot of stuff in that video was taken without context and was very 1 sided. Demochees later posted a Video speaking up about everything and took accountability for what they genuinely did wrong. Later, An expose doc came out with stuff from the video and more. In the Doc, it put stuff from the Video, dirty jokes, inappropriate things in their fankit and more. (The expose doc is not the best and like the video, tons of info was without context) This then put more drama and pressure on Demochees, causing them to take a hiatus and put out a defense doc written by ADULTS and actual context was added. But MantisGirls defenders and Others just had to go out of their way to send threats to Demochees, harass them and more eventually making Demochees leave the platform for good.

Two of them

By accident, in the first draft, and it was only sound effect of someone spitting

By accident, not only did "the 15 year old" not even see the posts, but i didn't know those were going to be in her public server with minors for mods

Subjective

True, this was ignored

This + A bunch of other msmtubers communities too

This is true, no one actually wanted to read the doc though

Demochees

24 minutes ago

Oh yeah if youre wondering wha happened to some of the songs

People who helped record sounds 🗣️ for them or otherwise provided ideas n stuff got REALLY MAD. and yknow, threatening, so theyre taken down. Do not reupload them, its for the greater good

Now, the story is that the two of us, Sarah and I, went out of our way to threaten and harass them, when we tried to be there as long as we could before making the incredibly difficult choice to cut them off. Up until the very last second, even if my mind was fuzzy and conflicted on how fully to feel, I considered them a friend, even at the expense of my own wellbeing.

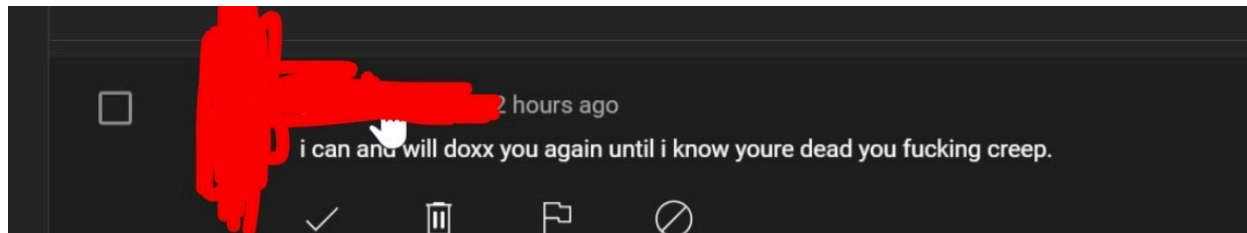

As of right now I do not know what the profile picture of that discord account is anymore, but the reddit account and subreddit have both been banned. As for legal action for my private information and images being spread without consent, I will be pursuing whatever action I can when I feel most comfortable to. To tell the truth, a big reason why I haven't done so is because it is an incredibly stressful process - writing a doc is a stressful process too, but even still that felt like an easier intermediary action to take. Thank you for your time.

Jude (ClownieJude)

Hello. I'm someone who was very close with Devyn. It may have been one-sided near the end, but I was someone who shared personal things with Devyn like my home situations and issues I face in real life, sometimes even crying to them. I emphasize the word was as this was an era I would say I was a bit blind for I'd say about roughly 8-9 months. Devyn would refer to me as their sister, and I would too like-wise. Today, a lot of my memories feel like a hot burning fire that they like to add fuel to just to screw me over. Now, the things that caused the end would be the build up from Devyn facing allegations on their channel, which were an indirect cause of me. Because of this, Devyn would continuously make actions, disconnecting themselves for the people who loved them, and would go on to double down, even after the connection has been cut (as you will see with some of these recent screenshots).

July:

To go chronologically, I will first start listing my grievances before me and Devyn cut contact. Now, the reason me and Devyn even cut contact in the first place was because of numerous arguments and altercations we had. For Example: Devyn would make up fake evidence against someone who they thought very negatively of. Devyn would upload a fake video of someone who im keeping anonymous of them saying something on the lines of "im the one who doxxed you and I'll do it again". This was during the wave a hate comments on their channel around this time so it wasnt that unexpected. But the I myself found a lot of plotholes in this video, and when questioned about it, Devyn lied. They would eventually confess to me but that was only when I was able to really find the big plotholes so they just gave up.

my trust issues have risen a lot now

(For the record, I do not support the person they did this to due to personal issues, but that doesn't NOT in any way give Devyn the right to have done this. This is only further evidence of the shit they do to frame others.)

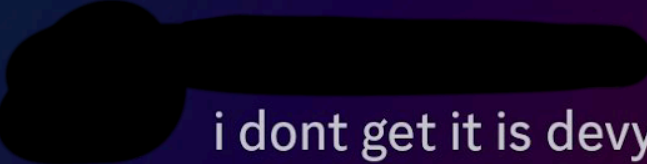

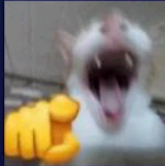

Most of these stem from the issues that arose in the wake of the allegations (roughly in mid July). Devyn believed that hurting others would be the solution to their issues as they were afraid of others leaving them, and so they wanted to, I guess cut contact before?? Not too sure about the thought process but there are countless times Devyn would just straight up be mean and act impulsively when interacting with others. This would include me as Devyn would start talking about cutting me out of their life and became obsessed with the altercations between them and Melody. Devyn would even start ignoring me or pretend to be busy (by pretending, they would say they're busy almost every time I wanted to talk to them, but I would see them talking on a different server.)

This type of rough behavior would be the catalyst for me wanting to cut the connection between the two of us as it became frustrating being pushed aside along with my feelings, but was subjected to seeing a 20 year old ramble to me and on and on about an issue that they were refused to want to just accept and move on. Every time I discussed my issues with Devyn, they would either apologize very briefly or would make excuses like "I've been having a bad day and this is only ruining everything, Jude!". And keep in mind, Devyn would almost not keep up any of these apologies.

This would cause me and Rredd (who was also friends with devyn too) to leave their server and briefly cut contact, as we believed this would be the only way we get Devyn to see their mistakes.

August:

After me and Rredd left, Devyn would begin to shift the narrative by mentioning it to people in the server, stating first that we both had differences and they understood why we left. But would then shift it against me by lying about my side. Again, when I would confront them about this, they would just make hollow apologies and guilt trip me. And like stated earlier, they would just repeat the same things they claimed to stop. Example: When me and my close friend left their server, they would keep complaining and whining about how Rredd “betrayed” them.

I would have to reassure them several times they had their reasons and Devyn would agree. But would keep bringing it up, almost like they keep forgetting as some way to get attention by pretending everyone is out to get them, an emotional manipulation tactic they use A LOT. This would then cause me to tell them I didn't want to talk to them, as I needed a break from their guilt-tripping and lying. Then I was blocked. To this day, I haven't spoken to Devyn directly. In some fit of rage, they would take down a handful of their songs and videos on their channel.

September:

Devyn would make a post stating that v/a's in their songs were threatening and harassing them to take those videos down, as an excuse as to why they took down their songs. They even doubled down and added a bubble emoji to throw shade at the Bubbledog's voice actress, Wubbazt. I would become curious if they were making this up, so I would ask people who used to collaborate on their channel to see if this was true. It was not! This infuriated me and caused me to tell others in that friend cycle about how ridiculous this is. Someone close with Devyn would see my rant and would talk about it with Devyn, leading to the post being deleted. However, Devyn would begin to try picking apart everything they've done to help me as some way to silence out the consequences. They claimed they saved my life and helped me out in a low part of my life. This is true, Without Devyn, I'm not sure I'd be here today and I WAS grateful for them. But when they try to use that as leverage against me so I can't just complain about them doing the blatant wrong??? They also try taking credit for my romantic relationship (which like, what. No??? Sure we met in your server, but thats it. You didn't orchestrate our relationship, you egomaniac.)

Everyone in my life
everyone in my life
No matter what
I just get pain and pain and pain for caring
WHAT DID I DO
i STOPPED HER from KILLING HERSELF
i GOT HER A BOYFRIEND
AND SHE DOES THIS

The Part where I ramble:

Devyn is an emotional manipulator that I believe should not have even a speck of the fame they hold in this community. This is highlighted by the fact Devyn would copyright strike a video containing their music MONTHS after it was posted, AND THEY GAVE PERMISSION TOO! (This was also during when everyone believed Devyn was dead and they tried farming attention from that, and it just so happens when I made a post about how they weren't dead, they attempted to delete any traces of the matter RIGHT AFTER)

Devyn has hurt me in a way I'm not even sure if they're capable of knowing. The past few months has been genuine mental torture from the pain they've caused me during and after our friendship. Now, they continue to spread false information about me and my friends as some petty attempt to get back at us.

Devyn, if you are even reading this. I was never your sister. Maybe in my eyes you were mine, but I can tell by now I was nothing more than an outlet and tool for your emotional episodes. Aren't I just a dispensable person who you could replace with someone else to hurt? Someone else you considered a sibling would agree. In fact, they showed me a screenshot of you threatening them if they spoke out about you. Granted this was months ago, but the fact you lied to me about and still tried making them the villain is disgusting.

Rredd (RreddIGuess)

As someone who's been friends with Devyn since roughly November 2023 and as Jude's partner a lot of this stuff is very important and close to me. I want to talk about basically everything I've had to deal with as someone who has been friends with Devyn for most of their youtube career and somewhat after. I'm gonna tackle this in sections because that's what makes most sense to me.

Also for context for this entire thing I cut contact with Devyn around late July/early August.

The cycle

I feel it's pretty important to mention before this that Devyn very likely has bipolar disorder. A long while before I cut contact with them they were trying to get diagnosed and successfully received medication for it. Bipolar disorder can explain the cycle of negativity I describe in this section but I don't believe that fully justifies their actions. Devyn had a very weird way of dealing with negativity. They would usually just take it out on everyone because I guess if they felt bad everyone else has to as well. They also never learned or improved from these episodes even though they liked to say they did but would always just go back to square one and revert back to being destructive and attention seeking*. One of the things they'd do once they returned to this point in the cycle is act like every negative force in their life was actually in the right and refuse to listen to anyone else. This happened multiple times and they'd use whatever person was most affecting them at the moment and just say that they're right over and over again. But then something would change and they would be completely fine in like a few days to a week. But there would always be something to send them back into that destructive version of themselves and it was just an infinite cycle I couldn't put up with anymore. So I eventually left for that and many other reasons I'll get into.

Sometimes i dig myself into lies spawned by psychosis so that people give me pity
Because i just Want to be Cared about

(Devyn)

Bigotry

Very recently before I cut contact with Devyn they detransitioned and became very weirdly bigoted. They would love to send very obviously targeted bigoted messages about specific members in their server or people they knew. Whenever they lost the friendship of Melody and Sarah they just started to hate everyone who shared any aspect of them. Whether they were trans, gay, in an online relationship, etc it didn't matter. I was even a target of this. Devyn and I got into a very unserious argument a few days before I decided to cut contact and because they couldn't think of anything else to say they just decided to pull the "you're not a real woman" card. For anyone who isn't aware I'm bigender (male and female) and it really hurt to be told that by someone I've supported and been friends with for basically years. And because of that I just felt unwelcome and decided to just go offline that whole day. And by the time I came back and decided I should probably screenshot it they edited it to be this.

I wish I would've thought to screenshot after it happened or say anything but I was just so surprised and hurt I just couldn't. They would also post bigoted "memes" that were transphobic and against people in online relationships to obviously make fun of Melody and partially me and Jude.

There was another time when a member of their server was talking about their feelings about their gender and devyn decided to just reply with "dont transition." I unfortunately don't have a screenshot of this. And then a bit after this I don't exactly remember how much longer they went on a rant about trans people and how every single one they've interacted with were "gooners" which says more about Devyn than trans people. This was way before this but Devyn has always been sort of polyphobic. I don't have any screenshots of this but they said many times that polycules were weird and fake. They also said that about all relationships in general even though they are aro/ace.

Mistreating people close to them

After the most recent drama with Devyn that involved Jude they decided to distance themselves from Jude a lot. Jude talked about this in her section so I won't bother going over it too much but it was really depressing to see it happen. Another example of this was Devyn's second partner who I won't be naming. The few times I was in vc with both devyn and their partner their relationship did not seem very healthy and they really seemed like they didn't understand that they were in vc with minors who should not hear any of the things they were saying. They ended up breaking up in a few weeks. A while after that happened Devyn said this.

Devyn  >ω< 3:48 PM

thats how i feel

i miss having a gf now what am i supposed to beat up when im mad

Whether it was serious or just a very unfunny joke it's still very concerning. Devyn also had a bad habit of keeping their friends' private lives not very private. It would be very often that Devyn would say "I don't know if i should say this" and then say the most personal and inappropriate stuff about their friends from other servers. Devyn in general had a really weird habit of revealing that stuff about themselves too.
