Final Project Instructions—Detailed Overview

Introduction

This capstone project is the culmination of our class, designed to give you control of the final. Initially, I provided guidance, but as the course progressed, you gained independence in programming and handling coding projects. Now, you will take full control of your destiny by planning and executing a real-world project of your choosing.

Project Planning and Management

This project is an independent study, so effective time management is essential. Begin early and thoroughly use all available resources, including course materials, tools, and our Discord community. Don't hesitate to seek assistance—whether in person, online, or by asking questions in our discussions. To pass, every required element must be completed and included in your final submission. Failure to meet any requirement will result in a zero for that section. For on-campus courses, attendance is mandatory. You must sign the in-class attendance sheets for each scheduled class until the final session. Missing a sign-in will result in a 100-point deduction from your final grade.

Final Project Documentation Guidelines

Importance of Documentation: For this final project, meticulous documentation is essential. Your submission must be comprehensive and well-documented to meet the grading criteria.

Tutorial Selection: Choose a pipeline from the pipelines below as your final project. Provide thorough and insightful documentation for every aspect of the project.
