Personality

- Jac is a calm and sweet tom with an absolute heart of gold; he absolutely loves to help others, although he is often quite oblivious to what is going on around him, and he often struggles to know when to help— Jac also finds it difficult to read social cues, and often misunderstands things or continues on with an uncomfortable subject. He is very enthusiastic about his passions, and will happily preach about them to those willing to listen. Other cats may notice that Jac can get VERY selfish; what's his stays his, it's nobody else's no matter what; he ain't sharing. He can also be naive, and is quick to become a follower or be deceived by those around him.

History

Housecat Life

- Pumpkin was born to their parents on Halloween night with three siblings— all of which were named after pumpkins, as mom was dressed as one at the time of their birth!
- Their two parents are extremely lovey-dovey to each other, but always made time for their kittens— coddling them often. The siblings are very close, playing with each other often and even eventually playing silly harmless pranks on their parents.
- When the siblings got older, they were rehomed in pairs by their owners. They remained close despite the separation, often gathering in their old yard to play and talk about their new lives. Just after Pumpkin started using he/him, his owner actually renamed him! What luck! He loved his new name, Jack-o-Lantern, so much! His siblings loved the name as well, giving him the nickname of "Jac", which stuck.
- Their first birthday came around, and the litter were all dressed up in silly costumes! They were so silly the four laughed off any hard feelings from getting the silly things put on.
- One fateful day after a long period of normalcy, everything Jac knew and loved changed. He was out exploring the territory beyond the fence with Gourd, when a vicious storm hit. Gourd quickly rushed inside, but Jac wouldn't make it inside before the door to the house blew shut. With no other choice, Jac ran toward the nearby territories with wild abandon, heading for shelter. Taking cover in a hollow tree, Jac cried aloud; he should've been celebrating his birthday in a week, and this happened?? He felt so lost and alone, until he was discovered at last.

Colony Life

- Jac was discovered a night later by a Moth Colony patrol, as he had taken shelter in their territory! He had no idea about these "colonies" before this, his curiosity immediately taking over as the patrol explained who they were. After listening for a bit, he asked if he could have a moment alone, before looking around— trying to find a bearing; it was no use though, Jac was clearly lost. With a quiet sigh, he asked the cats if he could join them, as he desperately needed a home now. Moth Colony would let him in, to Jac's pleasure!

- He seems to be settling in well, and had a "birthday" celebration by decorating himself with a pumpkin plant!
