

Dear Massachusetts Legislators,

Today marks 70 days left to pass a bill without risking a pocket veto. Two and a half months to legislate and pass into law the policies we need to protect our health, our communities and our future here in Massachusetts. We, the undersigned, are committed to a just transition in the Commonwealth. Our priorities reflect our conviction that there are multiple overlapping crises: public health, unaffordable housing, and life-threatening carbon emissions. These issues must continue to be addressed this session. Our house is on fire. We come together, to call for the following pieces of policy to move forward now:

It is not lost on us that the legislature revived the Next- Gen Roadmap bill after the governor's veto, and we believe the legislature holds the solutions needed to further ensure we meet the moment with thrust and a sense of urgency. The latest UN IPCC Report stated we have the solutions but lack the political will to make the change we need. Therefore, we ask you as our elected officials to demonstrate the will necessary to proceed in haste, as the climate crisis clock ticks on. The undersigned,
