

Professional Development Plan

Short-term plans	Strategies for Accomplishment
1. Attend a workshop or seminar that could help to meet people in my subject area and ask them about their teaching. 2. Practice time management skills to balance teaching responsibilities and personal life. 3. Participate in an educational conference (already have done one, but I would like to present at one). 4. Obtain my teaching certification in Florida or in whichever state I end up teaching in.	1. Identify opportunities for professional development by looking it up through UF or google, then participate in at least one event. 2. Create a weekly schedule that includes lesson planning, grading, and self-care activities. 3. Research what opportunities are available nearby and through the College of Education. 4. Contact the person in the College of Ed who is knowledgeable about certifications.

Long-term plans	Strategies for Accomplishment
1. Use at least two new classroom management techniques. 2. Develop strategies to accommodate different types of learners and student needs. 3. Integrate at least one new technology into my teaching. 4. Improve my understanding of diverse cultures in the classroom. 5. Continue reflecting on my teaching every week.	1. Research different strategies using academic journals and see what professionals recommend the most. 2. Create a variety of lesson plans that have modifications for students with different needs. 3. I can look into educational websites and incorporate them into my lesson plans. 4. Incorporate different perspectives into my lesson and ensure that I represent different cultures in my content. 5. Keep a reflection journal where I can write down what happens weekly and how I can improve.
