Hero-specific rules

1. Nice guy ≠ Hero: Please be mindful not to add a character to this wiki unless he or she is established as a hero in their setting - although standards vary greatly, we do not desire articles concerning regular citizens or nice guys unless they show exceptionally brave or heroic traits. Being a nice person or just doing things that are expected from common folk is not enough to make a character valid and such articles risk deletion once found.
2. Protagonist ≠ Hero: Most people tend to confuse these two terms. By definition, a protagonist is a character the story is centered upon, while a hero is a brave character who does good/heroic deeds. While they may overlap, they are completely different things. That being said, do not add pages for protagonists who aren't shown as being heroic.

Normal Heroes

God

This is HEAVILY abridged just because it is so long.

NOTE: For other depictions of God in fiction, please click Here. Additionally, please do not add informations about Gnosticism depictions since that version of God is not a hero and has page on Villains Wiki.

God is the overarching protagonist of all Abrahamic religions (Judaism, Christianity, and Islam). He is depicted as the one true God of the Universe/Multiverse according to the Abrahamic faith.

In Christianity, He has a son named Jesus who is also the Messiah in Christianity and Islam. In Islam, Christ is one of his chosen prophets, the penultimate (second to last) before Muhammad, the noble messenger, a teacher, ruler, one of the two messiahs (along with Hujjat-Allah al-Mahdi) and mercy to the worlds. He resides in paradise known as heaven, garnered by the Angels who is also the archenemy of his polar opposite and fallen creation Lucifer/Satan/The Devil.

Base Information

God is the English name given to a singular being in theistic and deistic religions (and other belief systems) who is either the sole deity in monotheism or a single deity in polytheism. God is most often conceived of as the supernatural creator and overseer of the universe. Theologians have ascribed a variety of attributes to the many different conceptions of God.

The most common among these include omniscience (infinite knowledge), omnipotence (unlimited power), omnipresence (present everywhere), divine simplicity, and eternal and necessary existence. God has also been conceived as being incorporeal (immaterial), a personal being, the source of all moral obligation, and the "greatest conceivable existent". These attributes were all supported to varying degrees by the early Jewish, Christian and Muslim theologian philosophers, including Maimonides, Augustine of Hippo, and Al-Ghazali, respectively.

Many notable medieval philosophers and modern philosophers have developed arguments for the existence of God and in modernity against. God is known for His kindness towards His children and His fellow angels in Heaven and loves to have people praise Him. God also gave man the knowledge to name all the animals. The Bible and the Quran are the most important books in the world as they were made through the revelation from god.

Battle with the Devil

In the End Times, God only intervenes at the last minute, because He is a fair God and will even let evil have its own way, because it is needed to maintain balance, hard as it may be for humans to understand this.

However, God will not stand His own followers being slaughtered, so in Christianity, He manifests as Jesus, and comes into the world millennia after Jesus' crucifixion in order to set all wrongs right. God leads the righteous souls and those Raptured to the final battle, and He duels and kills the Antichrist, then clashes with the Devil.

The Devil and his followers rally to attack Jesus by firing at them but Jesus/God blasts the armies of darkness out of the way. Vultures come and feast on those wicked humans who followed the Antichrist. Some believe that the Devil will be left corner, and He will be thrown into the deepest pits of Hell, bound and restrained for all eternity, never to return to tempt humanity, being as close to death as He can be in this pit because there is no escape from the tortures which await Him.

Others believe the Devil and Sinners will be finally destroyed and obliterated from the Universe, never to return to wage war on God again. Because they believe eternal torment is incompatible with merciful and just God.

Battle with the Watchers

In Genesis 6, and the Book of Enoch, a group of evil fallen angels, named Watchers, went down to Earth and took human women and taught humans forbidden knowledge. The Watchers were a group of evil Fallen angels led by their Leader, Semyaza. Azazel was their co-leader and Semyaza's second in command. Other prominent Watchers were Armaros, the archangel who taught humans forbidden magic, and others like Arteqoph, Gadreel, Kokabiel, Sariel, and many more of 200 in total. The Most High however was angered by such transgressions and disobedience, and imprisoned the Watchers and Semyaza in a supernatural prison, named Tartarus, after the Tartarus of Greek mythology.

The Rivalry between The Most High and the The Second Leader of the Watchers, Azazel, continued in Leviticus 16. This was revisited in the Book of Enoch, where The Most High declared Azazel responsible for all sin, in Chapter 10, verse 8 (1 Enoch 10:8), which states: "The whole earth has been corrupted through the works that were taught by Azazel: to him ascribe all sin".

As for the Primary leader of the Watchers, Semyaza, The Archangel Michael is ordered to bind him and his associates "fast for seventy generations in the valleys of the earth," from the time of their transgressions until the day of final judgment. After the period of bondage, Semyaza would be led off to an "abyss of fire," where he will be confined in torment forever.

- Continuously prevents Lucifer/Satan from taking his place
- Imprisoned Semyaza, Azazel, Armaros and the other fallen watchers so they won't cause harm anymore.

Skipping appearance.

Personality

NOTE: Note: This isn't meant to offend anybody of faith by revealing God's true image. Please don't take this as an attack on your religion. This is research from various religious beliefs. Please respect this before proceeding further.

God's personality is something which is very sensitive to a lot of people. They view His personality as something above all human comprehension and that to even attempt to decipher His inner thoughts is blasphemy. However, what has been revealed about His personality (by Himself, through The Bible) is surprising. Fitting God's speech that we were made in His image; God declares that He is capable of human emotions. He can feel great wrath, love, peace, unrest, unease, and even ruthlessness (towards His enemies only). What little is revealed about God's character is that He absolutely hates the notion of other deities, viewing them as demons, and says that this polytheism (and murder) is among the worst sins. God loves all life, which is why He gives us prophets, to save us and sway us back to Good. However, when a person is so steeped in evil, God's Heart grows sad, and He reluctantly hands us over to Satan as the wicked are the Devil's property.

God has very strict (yet simple) rules on how we ought to live. These include basic values such as preserving life (no murder) living a clean spiritual life (no lust or listening to deceit) and aiding others (encouraging evildoers to repent). These are basic rules, yet He has established higher rules too. For instance, a recurring theme in His rules is that we ought not to touch unclean animals, for instance, pork, shellfish, sea creatures which live on the bottom of the ocean (eels) and numerous birds (although this was strictly for the Jewish people as Christians are largely exempt from this rule). However, He still values these creatures (as He told Noah to rescue unclean animals as well as clean ones). God absolutely hates unclean items and if one of His people touches them, they are defiled (spiritually unclean) and have to go through a ritual to become pure again. Cleanliness is next to Godliness, and for this reason God wishes us to not be envious, put aside all impure sexual lusts, and to aid and redeem others.

God allows evil because to Him everything ought to have its own place in the world. It is the will of God in this world that life is not perfect, partly our own fault, and we ought to grow up and learn from our mistakes, thereby countering darkness and evil. As the saying goes, we learn from our mistakes, and God knows this better than anyone. He knows life is not all sunshine and rainbows but there will be challenges afoot. The theme of Abrahamic religions is to sin, then be cleansed through repentance. One cannot simply live a clean life. We are all sinners, said Paul, and we must face this if we seek God. Also, God knows that evil is limited, and He waits for the day He can set all to rights. However, Satan is still the Prince of This World and God has acquitted the world to Him, so God must wait until Satan's reign is over so He can kill the Devil. Satan is from where all evil comes, and all impure thoughts, and only through the Devil's demise can a perfect world be established.

Because of His strictness, willingness to use violence and allowance for evil, God has been viewed by many malt heists as being a flawed entity, a popular view in the Enlightenment. Alternatively, they see this as a flawed human interpretation of who God actually is.

Origin

Since Reindog is an original character created specifically for MultiVersus, and the plot of the game has yet to be fully revealed, not much is known about Reindog's origins. His official website bio reveals that he hails from the world of Zanifeer which was ruled by the Zanifeer royal family, for whom Reindog acted as their "Royal Guardian" and "long-lived protector". He is also described as the "sixth bearer of the Power Gem", said gem being the heart-shaped crystal floating above his head. His website bio also reveals the fact that he is 165 years old and that "Reindog" is just his nickname, while his true name would be unpronounceable.

Official Bio

The Zanifeer world was one of the first to fall into the Nothingn as a victim of the great dimensional cataclysm. As most believed, there were no survivors... except one: Rendog, the Royal Guardian. A long-lived protector of the Zanifeer royal family, his mission is to keep them safe. Though he may appear soft and cute, a warrior's heart beats strongly within this half-dog, half-reindeer creature who will do whatever it takes to protect his own. With the incredible magical powers of his gem, Reindog dreams of finding a way to bring back his beloved family.

Default Variant

Reindog's design, as his name implies, draws heavily from the anatomies of dogs (his general body shape, his long tail) and reindeer (his antlers). Some fans have also identified oriental dragon-like elements in his design, such as the unorthodox shape of his head and the small whiskers that appear on either side of his mouth. He has green and beige fur, possibly to symbolize his nature theme. He also sports a floating heart-shaped gem, known as the Power Gem, which floats above his head and between his antlers.

2T Fru-T is one of the main characters of the TV series Butt-Ugly Martians.

He is voiced by Rob Paulsen, who also voiced Carl Wheezer, Donatello, and Peck.

Biography

2T-Fru-T is the mechanic (described on the BUM merchandise as a "tech officer", he is most likely a lieutenant as he is of lower status than B-Bop but higher than Do-Wah) for the Butt-Uglies and inventor of BKM. Sometimes, B.Bop and Do-Wah can pick on 2T although they are his friends. A mechanical prodigy, 2T is the MacGyver of Martians and has been able to construct anything from invisibility rays to the BKM (Butt Kicking Mode) suits using parts that were immediately available. He often finds himself at the mercy of sub-standard parts sent to him by Dr. Damage, ironically, but these never slow him down for long. 2T is a bit socially inept, often forgetting Earth colloquialisms and fading into technical jargon when it is not necessary. He is also a bad liar under stress, although he can think of a good cover story whenever B-Bop is indisposed. He is usually calm, but has been known to snap at his friends whenever he feels betrayed (this may be insecurity; one episode has him stopping Muldoon in his usual slew of anti-alien insults with a cracking voice, as if he is about to cry). He wears a blue uniform and BKM suit.

Trivia

.His catchphrase seems to be "Babe" , as he frequently ends his sentences with such throughout the show.

.Expresses numerous traits of autism, though it's unconfirmed as to whether or not he's neurodivergent.

Angry Video Game Nerd

This article's content is marked as Mature

Angry Video Game Nerd contains mature content that may include coarse language, sexual references, and/or graphic violent images which may be disturbing to some. Mature articles are recommended for those who are 18 years of age and older.

If you are 18 years or older or are comfortable with graphic material, you are free to view this page. Otherwise, you should close this page and view another page.

The Angry Video Game Nerd (AVGN for short, formerly the Angry Nintendo Nerd, often abbreviated as simply Nerd, and the F@$king Nerd) is the titular main protagonist of the Angry Video Game Nerd web series, portrayed and created by James Rolfe.

In most episodes he reviews a different variety of poorly made video games, he does this by complaining and overreacting while often shouting and swearing at the graphics, controls, difficulty, music, quality, or gameplay.

He is portrayed by the series creator James Duncan Rolfe.

Physical Appearance

The Nerd is a Caucasian male with brown hair and blue eyes. He looks like a stereotypical nerd. He wears a pair of glasses and dresses in a white dress shirt (sometimes short or long-sleeved). In the shirt pocket, he has some pens tucked away to throw at whatever frustrates him. Lastly, he wears a pair of khaki pants. In the episode, Desert Bus, he is seen wearing a pair of blue jeans rather than his usual khakis. The Nerd also occasionally wears a silver Atari jacket, and may wear items of clothing appropriate for the time of year, e.g. Santa's hat for Christmas, and even dressed up as a vampire for a Halloween episode.

During tough fights, the Nerd equips his NES accessories to kick the asses of anyone or anything in his way.

Once he dressed as the "BatNerd" when reviewing various Batman games.

During the RoboCop episode, he is sporting a custom RoboCop inspired costume but with a front-loader NES as the visor and his breast pocket protector.

Personality

To put it lightly, the Nerd has serious anger issues, to the point of even destroying some of the games he reviews. He often drinks beer (either Rolling Rock or Yuengling), attempting to relieve his frustration and sorrow.

The Nerd's trademark is his filthy mouth. In almost every review he repeatedly swears to insult games. He's often quoted as saying that he would rather succumb to violent and scatological acts than have to suffer through the game he's reviewing. He seems to have few, if any, friends or acquaintances, even insulting children trick-or-treating at his house in the Halloween episode. That being said, the Nerd often acts very mean-spirited and cruel, and is generally unfriendly to most of the guests on his show. Despite all this, the Nerd also does reviews in a positive light on occasion, such as in the episodes: Nintendo Power, Back to the Future Trilogy, and Wish List (Part 2).

It could also be said that the Nerd is a masochist, as he spends his entire life doing nothing but playing video games that he hates. He even indirectly calls himself one at the end of his "Super Pitfall" review.

More aspects of the Nerd's personality are heavily revealed in Angry Video Game Nerd: The Movie. It is shown that he does have a kinder and more noble side to him, as he has a strong love and care for his fanbase and puts himself in danger quite frequently to keep them safe.

He is also revealed to have a friend in a fellow gamer and fan named Cooper, and that he values video games above other things that most normal people would be more interested in. This is the reason why the Nerd tries to avoid romantic relationships or involvement with females ("Nerds before Birds").

- In the 100th episode, he prevented R.O.B. from turning all the games into Stack-Up or Gyromite and taking over the world.
- He tried to warn people about Polybius.

Biography

Not much is known about Nerd's past. The episode of Board James: Video Games, features what seems to be Nerd's origin story.

James (Under the alias Board James) is a very big fan of board games, to the point where he seems to be more concerned about board games rather than actual people. He even seems to have gone as far as attempting to murder someone over the games. He is noticeably much more innocent and even cheery. However, when he begins to play video game-themed board games, a voice in his head keeps telling him how trash they all are and that he should just play the actual game. James keeps fighting off these thoughts until he eventually realizes that it's true. He soon realizes that he's tired of board games. He throws the games away, gets up and goes to play the actual game. It is here where he becomes the Angry Video Game Nerd.

However, it has not yet been confirmed if this origin story is considered canon.

The Nerd goes on a one-man quest to rid the world of awful video games. On his journeys, he fights Jason Voorhees, Freddy Krueger, The Joker, and other famous characters.

The Yeti, also known as the Abominable Snowman, is a legendary cryptid that lives in Himalayas. However, many countries have variations of the beast. Often considered a relative of sorts to the Bigfoot (also known as Sasquatch), the Yeti stands out as being benevolent and friendly most of the time, but aggressive on occasion as well, at least in the folklore of the local people who live in the area.

History

The Yetis were peaceful creatures, that were very shy, and lived in dense snow caves on the glaciers which form the Ganges River in India. The Yeti as name consider Dzu-teh name for a Himalayan brown bear.

Although by far not the most dangerous of cryptids said to exist (and certainly not the most dangerous being of folklore), the Yeti is nevertheless often believed to be a creature that is best left alone. It is also a popular basis for many monsters in fiction, due to it being a more peaceful beast or monster can be friend.

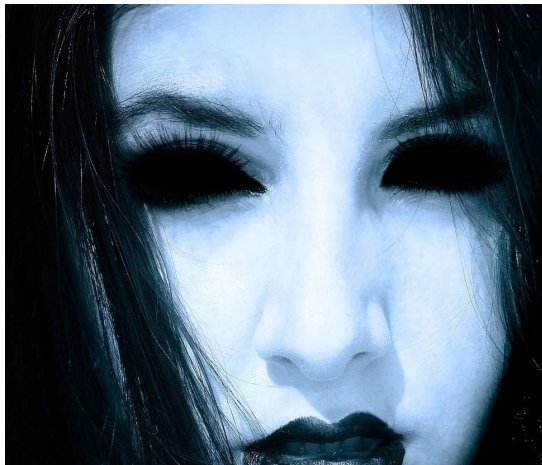

The Yeti is often as omnivores, it eats plants and other animals including bugs, fish, antelope, monkeys, ducks, rodents and deer.

Jane Todd Richardson, better known as Jane the Killer, is the titular main protagonist of "Born of Science: Jane the Killer", "Jane's Letter", and other creepypasta series/spin offs. Powers and Abilities

Due to the effects of Liquid Hate, Jane gained supernatural abilities from the substance such as increased strength, speed, stamina, healing, agility, and stealth. Other results included increased alcohol, drug, and tobacco tolerance, increased metabolism, running faster than a track athlete on steroids, accelerated healing, limb regeneration, vocal mimicry, and shapeshifting. Jane is also a highly charismatic and intelligent woman, often seen as seducing criminals into getting information before killing them.

Trivia

- Contrary to popular belief, Jane Arkensaw (currently known as Jane Everlasting), the story about a teenage girl who got burned and attended the same school as Jeff is NOT the original Jane the Killer or the canon version.
 - Jane Richardson, created by DeviantArt user FearOfTheBackWolf, is the true Jane the Killer. Jane Everlasting is an alternate interpretation of the character, despite being more widespread and known; Jane Richardson predated this version chronologically.
 - It is said that Jeff the Killer exists in the two Janes' universes, one of the Janes was killed by their counterpart from accusing each other of identity theft.
- Jane is a lesbian married to a woman named Mary Vaughn. It is literally impossible for her to have a romantic attraction to Jeff which she wouldn't have anyway because he's a serial killer who murdered her parents and ruined her life.
- At the time of the story, Jeff the Killer was on the FBI's most wanted list when he killed Jane's parents. The LAPD attempted to track him down to no prevail, so they turned to the FBI for help who requested the assistance of the CIA. - Liquid Hate was funded by the American Science Association. The funding totaled out to be $6.9 million dollars.
- After becoming Jane the Killer, Jane became an assassin working for the government. Not only is she actively trying to hunt down and kill Jeff the Killer, but she also eradicates any other criminal who needs to be removed from society. - Jane is not a threat, while she may have experienced homicidal urges during the first 90 seconds of her transformation, she eventually calmed down and is currently a snarky, ruthless, yet kind-hearted person who is willing to rid the world of evil. However, due to her abilities, she can be violent and wrathful if irritated.

Minene Uryuu

“ Nothing good comes from digging up the past.

~ Minene Uryuu

Minene Uryuu is one of the two tritagonists (alongside Aru Akise) in the anime/manga series Future Diary. She is a the Ninth Diary user and the owner of the Escape Diary. Initially introduced as a terrorist attempting to get rid of all religion (due to losing her parents to a fight over three takes on the same god), she eventually becomes an on/off ally to Yukiteru Amano and Yuno Gasai.

Appearance

Minene is a young woman in her late teens-early twenties, who has dark purple hair with eyes to match. She later loses her left eye during the survival game and wears an eyepatch, although she has a glass eye beneath it.

Her standard outfit consists of a black, sleeveless jacket, military trousers or jeans, with a tank top under the jacket.

However, when she was first introduced, she was seen wearing a lavender colored gothic lolita-styled dress. However, it was hinted that her usual clothing was wet and cold, leaving her no other choice to change clothes. She found the dress in an abandoned clothes room.

Personality

Due to her parents' deaths when she was only 8 years old, Minene was forced to live a brutal life as a street rat in a Middle Eastern country overrun with conflict caused by religious extremists.

As a result, Minene developed a hatred towards God and religion as a whole, eventually becoming a terrorist bomber as she grew older. Despising everything related to religion, Minene targeted religious structures, individuals and organizations to destroy them, her ultimate goal to wipe out the very idea of God from the world.

Minene considers herself a survivor first and foremost, and her Escape Diary reflects her belief. Before gaining her Future Diary, Minene still had an early version of the Escape Diary which she used as a regular journal, and had to navigate her own ways out of situations, writing down the possible escape routes in the diary. Because of her survival instincts, Minene believes she does not need anyone else in her life to help her, after spending her childhood and teenage years alone with no love or guidance. Minene is very tactical and intelligent, able to deduce and gather information easily.

Upon introduction, Minene is very intimidating, easily mentally unnerving Yukiteru Amano. She appears very psychotic and excitable when performing her acts of terrorism, more than willing to obliterate anyone who gets in her way. However, after her first appearance, she mellows out and is really a tough woman with a hidden touch of vulnerability to her. She does have a friendly side to her, having an attachment to small children and keeps a family of chipmunks with her for a time, eventually releasing them before her attack against John Balks.

Despite being clearly being a tomboy, Minene also has a feminine side to her, wearing several outfits during her time. Her standard outfit consists of black, sleeveless jacket, military trousers or jeans, with a tank top under the jacket. She also wears a gothic lolita dress in her first appearance, which she hangs on to despite not wearing it again. When she first wears the dress, Minene is temporarily reduced to a jibbering, embarrassed wreck when complimented as "cute" by Masumi Nishijima. Minene appears to be haunted by her eight-year old self, and the memory of crying over her dead parents, symbolising her desire to escape her own past and be saved.

Once Stephanie Noticed that all of the Robots were taken down, She got out of her Hiding Spot and Approached Vexus slowly, Within her Fists clenched. Vexus asked Stephanie: "Oh, So You are gonna fight me now? With your Weak Little Bare Hands? Hah! I'd like to see you try." As Stephanie Approached Vexus closely to her, She randomly summoned a Shockwave and knocked Vexus back, Allowing her to hit a Wall and get stunned.

Spyro Doomfire \(The Punkettes\)

Spyro Doomfire (スパイロ・ドゥームファイア Supairo Do~ūmufaia[?]) is one of the main protagonists (alongside Looslee Varikatu and Dai Matsuri) of The Punkettes, and a supporting character in The Minu Krab.

She is a mysterious wolf fridnikan originating from the planet Fridnika who is the leader of the fifth generation of The Punkettes under Punktero Litakira, Feesuka Minudaka's mentor, Shira and Dai Matsuri's adoptive sister, Dante Doomfire's younger half-sister, Looslee Varikatu's roommate and girlfriend, and Pepper Satanica's archenemy.

Description

Appearance

Spyro is a wolf fridnikan standing at 5'8". Spyro's dark navy blue and hot pink is rather messy, and is tied with a blue bow with a red monokuma eye, which is tied with a black hair tie with a red circular gem. Spyro's eyes are light blue. She also has two fangs, a gold nose ring, a wolf tattoo on her chest, two dragon tattoos on each arm, sharp blue nails that act much like claws. Her nose, despite appearing normal, is always damp unless she caught a common cold, in which case it dries out.

She may wear a beret similar to Misato Katsuragi from Neon Genesis Evangelion, and at times, a dark blue Atari hat. She also wears hair pins, dark blue headphones equipped with Shira's red scouter ever since the Talent Show Fire incident from 2013.

Her Punkettes attire consists of a black vest with the red monokuma eye over white collared shirt and purple tie, a navy blue skirt with dark blue and black striped stockings, and black lace up boots with cyan flames with purple laces. Her usual attire consists of a white tank top, a dark blue skirt, translucent tights, a rose fanny pack with a silver chain, silver earrings, a cross necklace, a California flag pin, a bisexual flag pin, spiked bracelets on each wrist, and a black jacket with loose tassels, a gold zipper, and a white fluff on the hoodie. She wears a necklace consisting of small, dark, round beads, and larger light beige colored comma-shaped beads between every three beads, and a skull with dark red and white feathers at the center. Spyro also wears a red armband with a wolf symbol.

Skipping for the sake of brevity

Personality

Spyro is the mild-mannered, laid-back, introverted, and big-hearted progressive-libertarian fridnikan. Like her roommate Looslee, she smokes marijuana, plays video games, watches YouTube videos, TV, and anime (particularly InuYasha and Neon Genesis Evangelion), reads novels, manga, and comic books, listens to music, parties, and drinks coffee, water, soda, and alcohol at times. Of the duo of two alien roommates, Spyro displays far more patience, responsibility, and intelligence and less craziness than Looslee does.

After her home planet's destruction, Spyro was once pessimistic, depressed, withdrawn and frustrated. Thinking that she was abandoned and treated contemptuously by others, She didn't understand why such discrimination happened, and so she also suffered from self-hatred. Spyro grew cynical and for a long time, trusted only a handful of people. Spyro hated those that killed for sport, especially Pepper. She had a strong distaste for people who ostracized others just for being different, especially Fukyu.

Spyro lives in the past and wants nothing more than to see her adoptive sister again, even though she had been gone for a long time. She reiterates the same phrase in her diary every day, perhaps in denial that life has changed since Shira's disappearance. One of the reasons why Spyro is often bad-tempered is her PTSD of her home planet's destruction and Shira's

"death". Despite her tough and at time, insensitive exterior, she truly cared about her friends who acted as family to her; each of them, in their own way, saved her from her loneliness, and vice-versa.

History

[! WIP]

[TW// parental and sibling death, mentions of smoking and cigarettes]

Spyro was born to Romulus and Megami, who was from one of the wolf tribes of Fridnika. She was the second oldest, being the younger paternal half-sister of Dante and the older sister of the twins, Reimu and Bitt. Not much of her childhood was known, however, when she was a child, a demon known as Pepper Satanica and her forces raided the town, burning homes and buildings, murdering the fridnikans and looting anything of value. The young wolf pup watches in horror as Pepper points at the wolf pup, silently ordering two soldiers and their hellhound to kill the girl, only for Romulus to kill them with his weapon and stall them long enough for Megami to take her, Dante, and the twins to spaceships deep within the forest, with Pepper and her forces on the pursuit, searching for any remaining fridnikans to enslave to build Pepper's great empire. Megami, alongside two other members of the wolf tribe found the spaceships and put Dante, Reimu and Bitt, and lastly Spyro, and went off into the woods where Pepper and her soldiers found them.

Spyro's ship lands onto Earth, as she comes out of the ship, she ends up in a forest. Not much was known during her time on Earth, but she does in fact, recall about encountering some kids one day, she once tried making friends with them, only to be mocked for her "dog-like" appearance, and end up being hurt by them, which she ends up running off into the woods. She had managed to get a part-time job with an akamakan, before their eventual termination, had remain hidden with Boboku National Park. One night, she encounters a girl known as Shira Matsuri, who freed her from the tree cage and the two drink and talk about their problems. After midnight, Shira asks if Spyro wants to stay with her, to which the wolf happily accepts. the two went home to the Matsuri household. Shira took her around her school and the city, to which Spyro ran into a very famous popstar known as Peppa Sikami.

On the night of the Talent Show on May 17th, 2013, Spyro's performance of Cups/When I'm Gone lead to her acceptance. The happiness and celebration was unfortunately short-lived, as a fire broke loose within the auditorium. While civilians manage to escape, Shira learns that Peppa Sikami is still trapped inside the burning building. With no one around to help save her, Shira boldly yet foolishly volunteers her own life. A fearful Spyro tries to stop her adoptive sister, but reluctantly allows the decision upon seeing Shira's humanity and motivation to rescue her mentor before it was too late. Shira then gives Spyro her red scouter as something to remember her by. After rushing inside, Spyro tries to go inside as well, however, it was too late, as the building violently explodes, with Spyro having been knocked back, having broken her right arm.

Shira had been reported missing, alongside three other students and two faculty members. For some reason, Peppa had been revealed to have made it out alive and declared the burning a case of arson, and identified the school janitor and three kids who were caught smoking that night and failed to properly put out the cigarettes as the people responsible, which led to their arrests the next morning of May 18th. Shira, alongside nine other students and six faculty members, were confirmed dead after the bodies were found beneath the rubble at the remains at the auditorium during the investigations. Shira was buried at the Sakura Graveyard next to her late mother. In the aftermath of the death of Shira, a heartbroken Spyro fell into a severe state of depression and was left with severe mental trauma, and became suicidal. Spyro couldn't believe it, yet has to come to terms on the day of Shira's funeral. Up until graduating, she mostly ignored a lot of people, coming off as aloof. Spyro stayed with Ainlie and Dai up until her graduation from high school, before leaving for college in Tampa Bay, Florida.

Upon arriving to college, she encountered Looslee Varikatu again, then eventually met and reunited with her older half-brother Dante, and met the twins Sonata and Aria Tachibana. Spyro told them about Shira and her younger sister, Dai. By the time of the move back to San Dosaka in California a few years later, Spyro was reluctant to move back, but soon accepted it, with Spyro reuniting with Ainlie and meeting the brand new Dai, who was no longer weird, a pacifist, no longer geeks out, her hair is entirely down, having contact lenses, and is now a rebellious punk. Hoping to get over her trauma, Spyro went upstairs and entered Shira's room for the first time in years, almost like having gone back in time, and unknowingly awakening the ghost. The wolf looks around the room, holding the Inuyasha plush and the VHS tapes of the recorded Toonami broadcasts of Inuyasha episodes, and the photo of her and Shira.
