

The popular soda brand Pepsi has listened to their customers, and has taken aspartame out of their diet cola. Of course, when you take out one zero calorie sweetener, you must replace it with another. Pepsi chose sucralose. Although there is no artificial sweetener deemed perfect, there is controversy surrounding the company's switch because of possible health hazards associated with consuming the artificial sweetener.