Stage 1 - Preliminary Impressions:

- Shape/Form: Predominantly rectangular; elongated or horizontal.
- Texture: Smooth, possibly reflective.
- Structure: Solid, firm, stable.

Stage 2 - Sensory Perceptions:

- Colors: Light colors, possibly white, gray, metallic hues.
- Temperature: Cool to the touch.
- Smells: Neutral; no distinct odors.
- Sounds: Quiet hum, possibly electrical or mechanical.

Stage 3 - Sketch and Spatial Layout:

- Appears as a flat, elongated structure or object.
- Surrounded by open space; minimal clutter.
- Possibly elevated slightly from the ground or base surface.
- Environment feels controlled, possibly indoors or enclosed area.

Stage 4 - Advanced Impressions:

- Purpose/Function: Seems functional or technological, possibly designed for interaction or monitoring.
- Associated with data, communication, or transmission.
- Feels precise, efficient, and designed for repetitive tasks or continuous operation.
- Emotion/Atmosphere: Neutral, functional, clinical, and purposeful.

Stage 5-6 - Comprehensive Insight:

- Could represent electronic equipment, technological infrastructure, or something that facilitates communication or energy transmission.
- User interaction is minimal but intentional.

- Underlying sense of “control,” “regulation,” or “monitoring” linked strongly to this target.
