Louisville Democrats

Image

Date: Saturday, November 8

Time: 10 AM to 4 PM EST

Drop-off location: Louisville Democratic Party Headquarters, 831 S 6th St, Louisville, KY 40203

Description: This Saturday, November 8 from 10 AM to 4 PM EST, the Louisville Democratic Party will join Governor Andy Beshear and Democrats across the Commonwealth for the Kentucky Democratic Party's No Hunger Day of Action. County parties across Kentucky will be collecting food for local food banks. Here in Louisville, we're proud to support Change Today. Change Tomorrow — a Black woman-led food justice and community engagement organization in Louisville's West End.

While Democrats across Kentucky are stepping up to fight hunger, Donald Trump and his allies in Washington are doing the opposite — blocking critical SNAP benefits and refusing court orders to release the funds that feed millions of families. These benefits have always been protected, even during government shutdowns. Instead of putting politics aside to ensure children and families can eat, their obstruction has left food banks and working families scrambling to fill the gap. That's why efforts like the No Hunger Day of Action matter. When Republican leaders turn their backs — including 5 out of 6 of our federal delegation, Kentuckians step up. Neighbor by neighbor, community by community. Let's show what it means to be a Louisville Democrat. Bring what you can, encourage your friends and neighbors to participate, and help ensure Kentucky families have what they need both immediately as well as for Thanksgiving
