

Chapter 2 Infant Toddlers and Their Families Assignments

1. Notes (10)

2. Family Structure - (20)

- Fill out the Family structure about Strengths, Protective Factors, Challenges and Risk Factors for Children or Families, and Strategies Teachers can use to support families.
- You may struggle with the protective factors, however, as stated on p. 35 of the book, “Any family structure may have risk factors and protective factors, given the particular characteristics of the family. For example, a calm, nurturing single-parent home would provide more protection than a two-biological-parent home affected by alcohol and violence.”

3. Parenting Styles - (20)

- Explain the 4 parenting styles described in the text.
- What are advantages and disadvantages for each of the styles?
- What are some characteristics of behavior you might see in children for each style?
- What are some characteristics of behavior you might see in parents for each style?

Chapter 2 Infant Toddlers and Their Families Assignments

1. Notes (10)

2. Family Structure - (20)

- Fill out the Family structure about Strengths, Protective Factors, Challenges and Risk Factors for Children or Families, and Strategies Teachers can use to support families.
- You may struggle with the protective factors, however, as stated on p. 35 of the book, “Any family structure may have risk factors and protective factors, given the particular characteristics of the family. For example, a calm, nurturing single-parent home would provide more protection than a two-biological-parent home affected by alcohol and violence.”

3. Parenting Styles - (20)

- Explain the 4 parenting styles described in the text.
- What are advantages and disadvantages for each of the styles?
- What are some characteristics of behavior you might see in children for each style?
- What are some characteristics of behavior you might see in parents for each style?