

Notes

Duplicate courses

Some duplicate courses listed, like MUS 43, EDS 139, and TDPR 6, may or must be taken multiple times. Such courses have been removed. Duplicate courses that appear to be genuine errors are highlighted in red.

College GE courses marked as major/department courses

This checks course names that were marked as department courses in the Marshall plan. If most of the plans share the same error, such as GL25's "ELECTIVE," then the error may be in Marshall's plans rather than the other colleges.

Missing college GE

Many Muir plans use "WRITING" instead of the specific Muir writing course. PC34 lists PHIL 27/28 first before POLI 27/28, unlike other Warren plans. Genuinely missing courses are highlighted in red, but even these just seem to be typos.

Wrong unit numbers

Some of these are common errors that have been corrected on the plans uploaded on Curricular Analytics. "By consensus" means that the correct units were decided based on whichever units was the most common across plans, which may be incorrect. For example, JAPN 130A is 5 units, but all colleges except Revelle incorrectly entered 4 units in the plan, so the consensus number of units is wrong. Such courses have been corrected. Once we get a dataset containing the correct units per course, this list should become more accurate.

Missing prerequisites

Prerequisites are determined based on course codes extracted from the course names. This means that Muir's plans for International Studies lists that INTL 101/102 has missing prereqs because the plan uses "Muir Writing" instead of "MCWP 40/50." Also, there may be additional prerequisite relationships (such as equivalent courses) that were not reflected in our prerequisite data, so some issues listed here may not be a problem in practice.

Upper division courses taken before junior year

Some upper division courses do not require upper division standing or can be enrolled through an EASy request, but generally they are intended to be taken only in a student's third and fourth year. There doesn't appear to be a course that requires an upper-division course in a student's first year.

Course names marked as for the major not present in other colleges' curricula

These courses are duplicate courses but with words like "or" in their name. Usually, if a course shows up multiple times but provides multiple options, it means you should take one option one quarter and the other option the other quarter. This is a bit annoying to deal with systematically because of how inconsistent the course names can be, so on Curricular Analytics, these show up as duplicate courses. Because plans.ucsd.edu is used by students as a guide or sample plan, I think ideally, a plan should arbitrarily choose a specific course and note that a different course may be taken instead.

Courses with multiple options listed multiple times

The curriculum consists of a list of department courses from the Marshall plan. The following flags whenever a department course name in another college's plan is not in the list. This may just be due to a different spelling or ordering of courses or because a specific course option also satisfies college GEs. Warren consistently considers “DEI” to be a department course.
