

Hey Tony,

I was recently researching how a home renovation can increase my home's value, because I heard about it from a friend of my Mom, and I happened to stumble upon your website. I liked your About page, it shows your knowledge and professionalism because that's what it takes to be in business since 2001!

I wanted to see what your writing looked like, so I took some time to hop over to your Instagram, and it reminded me of a quote my mentor would always recite, "Curiosity and intrigue solves future fatigue".

There I was rejoicing about the past until a wave of nostalgia hit me...and I realized how my mentor's quote could help you.

This wave instantly made me want to write something, so I did, and I used your brand as an example, choosing your Instagram as something to revise.

I've included a little thank-you gift below, because why not, I already have the writing anyway.

Let me know what you think about my nostalgia-fueled writing, because you've already contributed to it, so you might as well!

Andrew
