

Tab 1

EN COULD BE NANA SHIMURA'S RELATIVE

SPOILER WARNING

Alright so bare with me here.. This is actually my first time sharing and making a mha theory. My English isnt the best so I'll do my best to explain!

I shared about this theory on my twitter account around 2023. There's never been a further development about their relationship or especially any developments about En.

Before I start to explain my other proofs, I first want to point out how similar they are by look. Similar bangs, same hair color, similar eye structure. Now since En's last name was revealed as "Tayutai" , I don't think they could be siblings. But they could be distant cousins, or people that knew each other closer.

Firstly En had one of the most brutal deaths among other OFA users. He was the one to transfer Nana OFA , and the only OFA user we see that's crying before death, passing their possession. None of the other OFA users were crying as he did. Now I think he's crying tears of joy or relief at the relief of that he managed to pass OFA before dying, but also thinking that he could be crying at the fact that he was relieved to see a familiar face he trusted.

He in particular had barely any information revealed about him, and on top of that he covered his mouth and was the predecessor of Nana , one of the most important OFA users. The canon synopsis says En was fighting AFO alongside Nana and transferred OFA to her while dying. Nana was physically present, En prioritized saving HER specifically and she escaped carrying his legacy. That implies a long-term partnership, emotional trust, or a preexisting connection obviously.

They're both conceal parts of themselves emotionally, have calmer/more restrained personalities, and are tied to support-mobility quirks rather than brute force quirks. Smokescreen (6th) and Float (7th) are the only two non-offensive, purely utility quirks in the chain. They represent "The Great Escape" era of OFA. Also, We know her as "Shimura" her married name.

We actually don't know her birth name. Could her birth name have been the same as En's?.. If we look at Tenko Shimura. Before his hair turned white from trauma it was dark and shaggy, very similar in texture to En's. That could imply they're from the same blood or distant relatives.

The "mouth covering" detail might symbolize secrecy. You could theorize that he deliberately hid his identity from AFO, tried to protect surviving relatives, or belonged to a family line targeted by AFO.

That becomes interesting, because Nana ALSO hid her family from AFO later by abandoning Kotaro for his safety. Also that implies that they have similar ways of dealing with the threat. Also, in the Vestige world, they are often seen standing near one another...

Anyway, I know this might sound pretty stupid, but I thought it made sense in a way! I wish we got more canon info about the successors

Evidence Type	Details	Why it supports the Theory
Quirk Science	Both are Utility	Suggests a genetic branch focused on "hiding."
Succession	She was a "Civilian"	En likely chose her based on blood not rank.
Visuals	They look similar	Matches the pre-trauma Shimura family look.
The Handoff	En's crying	Possibly Implies a pre-existing emotional bond.

THANK YOU FOR READING!