

Defining Objectives

| Momentum trader/Reversal trader

I would say I'm somewhere in between, leaning slightly more towards momentum trading. I love following the trend when the price is well settled above/below moving averages. However, I don't mind taking counter-trades if the price gets to a strong support/resistance area from which it has historically rebounded.

| Swings and Long-Term Investments

I have a full-time job and can spend 2-4 hours in front of the screen, mostly in the evening. I hope to get into scalping as well as soon as my system becomes profitable and I can start working as a full-time trader.

| Asset class: Equity, Options, Futures

I'm currently trading crypto but would like to fully focus on trading equities and futures when the bull market for crypto is over. I'll start trading options when I fully understand the market and price action.

| Risk Tolerance: Risk seeking/Risk tolerant

I'm between risk-seeking and risk-tolerant. Small and average losses don't have a big impact on my mental state. I have 25% of my total revenue invested in the markets.