

Stardust Love, By Katie Phillips

All of the pieces falling into place
Family disease is spotlight center stage
I can't worship the ground you walk on if you're walking away
I can't justify carving my heart up to just to feel your pain
Your pain
Your pain

Radio silence such a hurtful game
Comfortable violence, invisible stain
I can't keep on building bridges to you while you're stoking the flames
I can't sacrifice myself at the altar of your mistakes
Your mistakes
Your mistakes

How many ways can we say goodbye (pause, syncopation at the start)
How many ways must I lose you
How many times can you tell the same lie
How many times can I I lose you

I know your reasons you don't even have to say
We've all be grieving in our own way
I will do my best to try and make it in these numbered days
In time when we return to stardust only love remains
Remains
Love remains
Love remains
